LINCOLN IDEALS NOW FACE TEST, HOOVER STATES

Says People Must Fight Own Battles in Their Own Communities

F E A R S "SUPERSTATE" Danger in Further Central- ization of Government, President Warns

Washington —(P)— Through a microphone placed upon the table at which Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation, President Hoover told the American people last night that the present furnishes a critical test for the principles and ideals of his great predecessor.

Today as in Lincoln's day, he told his radio audience, state rights, the relationship of federal, state and local government responsibilities, form the dominant problem.

"Victory over this depression and over our other difficulties," he said, "will be won by the resolution of our people to fight their own battles in their own communities, by stimulating their ingenuity to solve their own problems, by taking new courage to be masters of their own destiny in the struggle of life. This is not the easy way, but it is the American way. And it is Lincoln's way."

For his far-scattered listeners the president in terse words pictured the scene in the Lincoln study from which he delivered the anniversary address.

The view from the windows looking toward the Washington monument which was building in Lincoln's day, the chairs in which the cabinet debated the grave problems of the civil war, the tablet over the mantelpiece, bearing the inscription reciting the deliverance from slavery of 4,000,000 Negroes were described simply. The president's voice expressed his deep feeling. He recalled the that working here, by day and by night, Lincoln could hear the cannon that echoed in the deep struggle between the states.

He told of Lincoln's principles of government.

"You will find Lincoln addressing the country in strong and urgent support of the protective tariff."

You will find him advocating federal aid in internal development of waterways, rivers and harbors, and transportation. You will find him pointing at the public mind against nullification and for adherence to constitutional processes of government."

Threat to Liberty

But it was to centralization of government that Mr. Hoover devoted his principal attention. If the federal government continued to take on more responsibilities, he warned, it could lead "but to the superstate where every man becomes the servant of the state and real liberty is lost."

"Such was not the government that Lincoln sought to build," he added.

Mr. Hoover told his audience that Lincoln was a good party man.

"He realized, as we also must realize, that fundamentally our whole self-government is conceived and based on majority rule, and to enable the majority to express itself we must have party organization. Lincoln led in founding the Republican party and he gloried in his party. His tradition has dominated it to this day. It was and is a party of responsibility; it was and is a party of the constitution."

He characterized Lincoln as a "builder in an epic of destruction."

"His undying idealism and inflexible resolve built a new temple of the national soul which our succeeding generations have since dwelt secure and free."

The president told how Lincoln, if he could return today, would find the south recovered, inspired by a brilliant renaissance of industry and culture, and the Negro race he liberated progressed by its own endeavors to "an amazingly high level of self-reliance and well-being."

U.S. To Withdraw Marines From Nicaragua

SMALL FORCE TO REMAIN UNTIL 1932 ELECTION

Nicaraguan National Guard to Continue Campaign Against Bandits

Washington —(P)— The United States is to withdraw its marines from Nicaragua.

Acceptance by President Moncada of Nicaragua, of a definite plan substantially to reduce marine forces in Nicaragua by June and pave the way for complete withdrawal after the elections of 1932 were announced today by Secretary Stimson.

The marines to be withdrawn by June, plans for which will become immediately effective, are those on combat duty against the insurgent forces and total about 800. The remaining marine force will be stationed at Managua, the capital, and will devote their attention solely to training purposes and as an aviation unit required in some sections due to lack of roads.

All marines under the plan will be out of Nicaragua following the 1932 election.

The withdrawal plan is linked with a plan to immediately increase by 500 the Nicaraguan National guard which will wage a vigorous campaign against bandit forces, most prominent among whose leaders was the elusive "General" Sandino.

The augmenting of the national guard will increase its strength to about 2,000.

500 To Remain In June

By June the marine force of 500 will be in contrast to one over 5,000 in Nicaragua on January 1, 1932.

The plan was devised by Stimson while in conference with American Minister Hanna, Major General Frank R. McCoy, army officer, who supervised the 1928 elections, and Brigadier General Douglas McDougall, former commander of the Nicaraguan National guard and a United States marine officer.

The secretary summoned these three to Washington for the conference.

"The plan covers provision to pay for the increase by Nicaragua of the guard and looks toward the eventual suppression of the insurgent forces in the republic."

Stimson withheld any announcement of the plan until it had been accepted by the Nicaraguan president.

Announcement of the proposed withdrawal was received enthusiastically in the senate where a bloc has strongly opposed their presence in Nicaragua. Senator King, Democrat, Utah, has a motion pending to strike from the navy bill any funds for use of the marines in Nicaragua.

"I am glad the marines are coming out," commented Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, "and I hope they will stay out."

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, said this was "promised long ago and it is time the promise is being carried out."

BLAINE SAYS HE'LL PROVE HIS CHARGES

Senator Replies to Attack on Purposes Made by Postmaster General

Washington —(P)— Chairman Blaine of the senate postal subcommittee, investigating committee, said today he would produce evidence of large political contributions by postoffice inspectors "at the proper time," despite Postmaster General Brown's statement that they have only contributed $500, since 1924.

Blaine said he did not want to place the evidence in the record until some of those concerned have been called to testify.

Replying to Brown's assertion that he has "not a scintilla of evidence" to support his charges of corruption in postal leases, Blaine said the postmaster general "after the testimony is all in, will have ample opportunity under oath to rebut it."

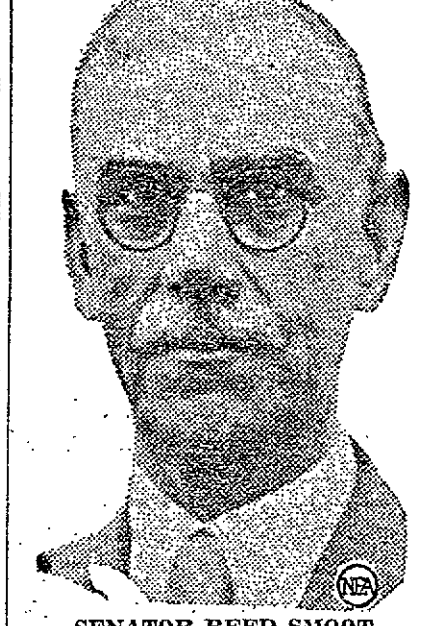

"I decline to be drawn into a personal controversy with him," he added.

Brown in a statement, charged Blaine with using his "cloak of senatorial immunity" to "drive the American people into believing there has been widespread corruption and fraud in the making of postal leases."

MANY MESSAGES ARE RECEIVED BY POPE

Vatican City —(P)— From every corner of the earth, wherever slender threads of copper yesterday plucked the message of Pope Pius XI from the air and carried it to human ears, there came today to the Vatican a steady stream of telegrams, cables and radio messages of congratulation and felicitation.

Wants Action

SENATOR REED SMOOT

Senator Smoot of Utah, has notified the senate that he expects a vote today on the drought relief bill, despite a threatened filibuster.

Argue Birth Control Bill At Hearing

Supporters of Gillett Measure Declare It Will Reduce War Threat

Washington —(P)— Scores of advocates of birth control packed the committee room today as hearings on the Gillett bill to legalize dissemination of contraceptive information opened before a senate judiciary subcommittee.

The day was to be devoted to hearing proponents of the bill, with tomorrow given over to its opponents.

The bill of Senator Gillett, Republican, Massachusetts, was described "as the most important piece of social legislation to come before you at this time or any other time," by Mrs. Thomas N. N. Hepburn of Hartford, Conn. She declared the question of birth control is at the bottom of all prevailing social ills, including poverty and unemployment.

Mrs. Margaret Sanger, New York, the country's foremost birth control advocate, introduced by Mrs. Hepburn, traced the history of birth control in the United States.

Dr. J. Whitridge Williams of Johns Hopkins university, declared "a huge bootleg trade has grown in contraceptive devices and information."

Doctors Object

"The average doctor," he said, "objects to the present law against birth control for the same reason he objects to the prohibition law and Narcotics law, because it attempts to tell a physician how to prescribe treatment for his patients."

"Birth control," said Rev. Charles Francis Potter of New York, "tends to prevent war. The bird of war is the stork. Nations expand beyond the ability of their own land to sustain. They demand room for expansion and colonization and the result is war. The practice of birth control enables a country to limit its population to the size indicated by its natural resources and the best health and welfare of its citizens."

He held birth control would encourage earlier marriages by dissipating the fear of having children before they can be provided for properly.

Citing the world's population in 1924 from 700,000,000 at the beginning of the nineteenth century to 1,700,000,000 now, Prof. Henry Pratt Fairchild of New York university said "the record of the past 100 years can not possibly be projected very far into the future," without overpopulating the world.

"This measure will do more to prevent wars in the future and open the way to international peace," he said, "than any that could be developed."

Opponents of the bill will be heard tomorrow.

BULLETIN

Walworth, Wis. —(P)— "Two armed men held up the Walworth State bank shortly after noon today and escaped with about $5,000 in currency after forcing two bank employees into a vault and leaving two customers lying on the floor."

Sheriff James Mason was notified at Elkhorn and organized a posse of Walworth county vigilantes who traced the robbers' automobile through the village of Zenda, southeast of here. The robbers' automobile was described as a blue sedan, bearing Illinois license plates.

SIX MILLION IS REQUESTED FOR AID TO JOBLESS

duces Relief Fund Measure
in Badger Senate

Madison —(P)— A $6,000,000 relief fund for the unemployed of Wisconsin was proposed in a bill introduced in the senate today by Sen. Leonard Foss, Milwaukee.

The entire sum would be taken from the general fund of the state and would be returned by means of a surtax on taxable incomes in excess of $2,000 in 1931.

Sen. Foss proposed distribution of the $6,000,000 to counties on the basis of income tax collected in each county last year. The money would be set aside by the county treasurer as a "temporary unemployment relief fund." Distribution is proposed as follows: $1,500,000 on March 1 and April 1; $1,000,000 on May 1 and June 1 and $500,000 on July 1 and Aug. 1.

County treasurers would be authorized to use the fund or credit against the fund for each unemployed person of a family in which no person is employed, but not to exceed one to a family, who has an affidavit showing that he has been a resident of the state for at least two years and is unemployed through no fault of his own.

Sen. Foss proposed the payment of $8 a week for meat and groceries for married couples without children and $14 for each couple with children. In addition $24 a week would be given for rent or to apply on payments on the purchase price of a mortgage on a home. All credit offered for meat and groceries would be good only in independent neighborhood stores. All funds raised by the county for unemployment would be added to the relief fund, according to the bill.

Assemblyman Carlton Mauthe's joint resolution to put the legislature on record as opposed to the employment of both husband and wife by the state failed of concurrence in the senate. The vote was 14 to 11.

Sen. Thomas Duncan's bill to create an executive council for the governor was engrossed only after Sen. Walter Goodland, Racine, voiced objection to "letting the state be run by a council instead of the governor." He said he would not strenuously object to the bill if it carried the desires of the governor but added that he thought "it was" a "mighty poor piece of legislation."

Considerable suffering is being caused in the northern drought areas because of the lack of adequate clothing. More money is needed at once if these people are to be taken care of.

Contributions to the Outagamie county chapter can be sent either to the Appleton Post-Crescent or to the Outagamie county chapter of Red Cross, P. M. Conkey, treasurer. In either event checks should be made payable to the Red Cross.

The following, in addition to those named heretofore, have contributed to the Red Cross fund:

Frederick M. Johnson, R. C. Roeder, Dora Eberhardt, Ray Claiborne, Arthur H. Benson, Gretchen Seaton, Mrs. Sophia Buck, R. A. Schmidt, Howard A. Downey, Ruth B. Wright, Anonymous, Combined Locks Paper Co., John F. King, William Rounds.

TO SEEK NEW TRIAL

Pasadena, Calif. —(P)— Counsel for Richard M. Cannon, son of Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, said he would seek a new trial on a charge of failure to pay wages in appearing today for sentence.

A maximum sentence of six months in jail or a $500 fine, or both are provided by the state labor laws. Cannon was convicted Wednesday of failure to pay a teacher $33 due her for services at a boy's school, he managed.

MELLON AID RESIGNS

Washington —(P)— Secretary Mellon today announced that Walter E. Hope, assistant secretary of the treasury, had resigned, effective March 1 to resume the practice of law.

$200 Added To Red Cross
Drought Fund In 2 Days

The Outagamie county Red Cross fund received its most decided boost yesterday and this morning when almost $200 was added to the total which is about $540. The county, however, still must provide another $500 to reach the quota of $1,000. Most of the contributions in Wisconsin subscribed their quotas long ago.

A check from a large industrial organization materially increased yesterday's subscriptions and Red Cross officials are hopeful that other industrial institutions in the county will follow the example that has been set. The $200 still to be provided could be raised without difficulty if people here had a proper appreciation of the extent of the disaster in the drought areas.

Reports from other parts of the county indicate that the national quota of $10,000,000 will be reached and at the same time investigators in the drought areas declare that this will not be nearly enough to take care of the thousands of families in need of food and clothing. ## Vanderbilt Outlines His Version About Mussolini "Hit And Run" Incident

Los Angeles —(P)— Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., today told his version of the Mussolini hit-run story for which Major General Smedley D. Butler was ordered to face court martial, and asserted the anecdote would have "proved merely a squab compared to issues which testimony taking would have made public."

Vanderbilt said General Butler "took a stoic, of mine, twisted it around to score a point for himself and made me the goat."

"Testimony I would have given at Butler's court martial," Vanderbilt said, "would have brought out statements made by the general at a gathering of members of the American Affiliated Lecture bureau last November. 'These statements,' he said, 'concerned failure of a foreign power to live up to the terms of the naval pact entered into last year between the United States, Great Britain and Japan.'"

Vanderbilt said the third speaker at the November meeting of the lecture bureau in New York, at which he and Butler spoke, was "an official of a foreign government."

"Vanderbilt's story of the Mussolini incident was as follows: 'I was riding with Mussolini, who drove. A small child ran in front of the machine at a sharp turn in the road and was hit. I looked back to see if the child was hurt. Mussolini placed his hand on my knee and said 'never look back, Vanderbilt, always look ahead in life.'"

Butler heard the story in a confidential meeting, Vanderbilt said. "If I had been called to the stand I should have been prepared with 40 affidavits from persons bearing me out in my contention that General Butler misquoted me. I should have been forced to tell what the other two speakers, including General Butler, said in November."

"One overt act on the part of General Butler will result in my filing a legal action that will bring all these facts to light. I will not sue to collect monetary damages. The suit will be for the purpose of disclosing the manifold angles arising out of the Mussolini incident, and the other issues."

KNOWS NOTHING OF SUIT

Washington —(P)— Major General Smedley D. Butler of the marines could not be reached today at his Quantico, Va., post but his counsel, Major Henry Leonard, said he had heard nothing of Vanderbilt's reported plans to sue Butler if there is "one overt act" on the latter's part.

"I know nothing about the reported plans of Vanderbilt," Major Leonard said.

Former Assemblyman Says
No "Underhanded" Offer
Made to Sen. Smith

Madison —(P)— Denial of Gov. Phil LaFollette's bribery charges was made before a special senatorial investigating committee last night by Attorney Paul H. Raible, Chippewa Falls, former assemblyman.

He declared his conversation with Senator P. J. Smith, Eau Claire, in the latter's hotel room here about midnight Feb. 4, was not intended to carry an offer of money to influence a vote on two utility measures before the senate.

The governor submitted a "statement in writing" from Senator Smith which had caused a furore in the upper house yesterday, and brought appointment of the committee. It said Raible, an attorney for the Byllesby (Northern States Power company) interests in the Chippewa Falls territory, had told the senator that "if things went right" with the two bills he would see that Smith's salary as a $500 per term hold-over senator was made to equal that of newly elected senators—$2,400.

When Senator Smith refused this, according to the governor's statement, Raible told him it would not be an "underhanded" gift, but rather a donation from his constituents.

Told Not to "Bait In"

Raible told the committee he was specifically instructed by his company not to "bait in on legislative matters." He swore he received only $100 per month retainer from the company, with instructions to watch only for its interests in Chippewa Falls.

The committee received until next Tuesday after hearing this conflicting story.

Senator Smith's statement to the governor, made in the presence of Attorney Alfred T. Rogers, Madison and Daniel Grady, Portage, and Senator Glenn D. Roberts, Madison, said he admitted Raible and former assemblyman B. Minier, New Richmond, to his hotel room.

They suggested some "refreshments" and the trio partook of them. Senator Smith's testimony to the governor revealed. At the committee hearing last night his answer of "I couldn't say" to the question "how many drinks did you have?" brought laughter.

The statement to the governor continued that Minier left after some discussion of pending legislation and was not present when Raible was alleged to have mentioned the subscription by constituents. That was prefaced by Raible's statement that senators "not nearly as able" as Senator Smith "are drawing their $2,400" and constituents of the senator were "getting their taxes paid through the utility" operating in Chippewa Falls.

Did Not Accept?

"I immediately told him I was not open for this and did not accept," the senator's statement relayed to the committee said.

After again refusing the tender, Sen. Smith said in his "statement in writing" to the governor, he was asked what would convince him the bills were bad. He told Raible he had heard nothing to that effect from his constituents.

Questioning by the governor then revealed that Senator Smith subsequently received many telegrams and letters from Chippewa and Eau Claire residents.

Senator Smith testified before the committee along lines similar to those in his statement. Senator Walter S. Goodland, Racine, author of the resolution creating the special committee, asked Senator Smith if Raible was registered as a lobbyist. Senator Smith confirmed his statement to the governor that Raible had told him he was not and was pleading only as a Chippewa Falls citizen.

RAIBLE DENIES BRIBE CHARGES BY LA FOLLETTE

Former Assemblyman Says
No "Underhanded" Offer
Made to Sen. Smith

Madison —(P)— Denial of Gov. Phil LaFollette's bribery charges was made before a special senatorial investigating committee last night by Attorney Paul H. Raible, Chippewa Falls, former assemblyman.

The ruling affects about 42 teachers.

SENATE MUST REMAIN UNTIL VOTE, HE SAYS

Senator Thomas of Oklahoma Makes Threat of Drawn-out Speech

EXPECT ACTION TODAY

Drought Relief and Navy Supply Bill May Encounter Final Vote

BULLETIN

Washington —(P)— Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, concluded his filibuster in the senate today and moved to send the bill including the $20,000,000 compromise relief plan back to conference.

Washington —(P)— The senate encountered a filibuster today by Senator Thomas, Democrat, Oklahoma, which blocked action of the $20,000,000 drought relief compromise and threw a scare into leaders who want to avoid an extra session.

Taking the floor at the opening of today's session at 11 o'clock, Thomas spoke on and on. He said before he went on the floor that "human endurance is the only limit" to his speech.

The Oklahomaian is an opponent of the loan compromise but he directed most of his complaints today to failure of the interior department appropriation bill, in which this fund is embodied to provide for a $51,000 trust fund for Indians in Oklahoma.

Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, came to the aid of Thomas, suggesting the absence of a quorum, permitting him a rest during the roll call.

Senator Smoot, in charge of the bill, notified senators to cancel dinner engagements for tonight and prepare to wear out the filibuster.

Thomas challenged Smoot to keep his seat throughout the filibuster accepted, eating his lunch at his desk. Realizing they were outguled in a filibuster with only three weeks remaining and none of the appropriations bills enacted, leaders hurriedly began conferences. They sought to ascertain the strength of the filibuster.

Frazier Backs Thomas

Senator Frazier, Republican, North Dakota, chairman of the Indian committee, was ready to assist Thomas but aside from that no other known speaking support was apparent.

Proponents of the relief compromise were confident of its being approved, when a vote could be taken. In the interior department bill, held up by the talk, carries more than $25,000,000 for improvements in public works, including Indian reservations, but the disposition of the $51,000 trust fund of Oklahoma Indians bothered Thomas.

The senate at last appeared to have reached the cross roads on whether an extra session is to be forced and both Democratic and Republican leaders were determined to force this to an issue in a drive to avoid such a meeting.

Thomas' speech was directed principally against the elimination in conference of several appropriations relating to Indians. Besides his own remarks, he had obtained the membership's consent to use clerks in reading data he wished placed in the record.

But neither his determination to go the limit in speaking nor the continuing opposition to the loan compromise of several Democrats and Republican independents caused serious apprehension to leaders. They were confident still that the proposition would be approved.

After Thomas' speech some remarks from Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, were expected. Yesterday he said the administration station convinced him food purchases would be possible under the legislation, but he withheld approval of the plan over the objection of the house.

The house expected no delay in getting rid of the navy appropriation bill, the only one of the regular supply measures it has not passed.

BROTHERS ATTORNEYS
GAIN POINT IN COURT

Chicago —(P)— Permission was granted attorneys for Leo Brothers, charged with the slaying of Alfred J. Lingie, Tribune reporter, to inspect the records of the Riviera hotel, by Chief Justice John P. McGorty today. Three telephone calls from the room in the hotel about the time Lingie was slain June 9.

At the same time, Trenchard Krum, attorney for Brothers, filed an amended petition to impound the records now held by Special Assistant State's Attorney Charles F. Rathbun.

Brothers will go on trial for the slaying March 3 before Judge Joseph Sabath.

McGovern And Cannon Clash Over Reinstatement Measure

FORMER PLANS SUIT FOR LIBEL AS CHARGES FLY

Cannon Accuses Former Governor of Working for Corporation Judges

Madison — (P) — Former Gov. Francis B. McGovern today had served notice on Raymond J. Cannon, disbarred Milwaukee attorney and former candidate for the state supreme court, that he intended to institute libel and slander charges against Cannon because of a "grossly slanderous and libelous article" appearing in a newspaper recently. He said Cannon sent copies of the article to all legislators. McGovern announced his contemplated action when he appeared before the assembly judiciary committee hearing yesterday to oppose the Grosschmidt bill to reinstate Cannon. Cannon was disbarred after being found guilty of professional misconduct and solicitation of cases. His disbarment was upheld by the supreme court prior to his candidacy as a member of the judiciary.

Cannon and McGovern met before the committee. A bitter debate ensued in which Cannon attacked McGovern, the Milwaukee bar and bench and the state supreme court. He charged his disbarment was the result of collusion between corporation lawyers.

The former governor opposed the bill as unconstitutional, stating it sought to empower the legislature to invade the judicial branch of government.

Can't Over-Ride Court
"We can't," he said, "over-ride a ruling of the supreme court. You yourselves have passed a law giving the supreme court the power to create uniformity and aid in the expedition of such matters."

"I have done all in my power to vindicate the legislature," McGovern said. "I have spent my own money, prepared my own brief to give the legislature the voice you say it has, but now that such is known to be unlawful, am not right in upholding the supreme court in the same manner. I shall not be responsible if you will, but do not mix it."

"Your only power," he said, "is to impeach judges. Let Cannon go ahead and get himself elected circuit judge. He is now before you in campaign for that office. He is here today because the circuit judgeship is at stake and he is using this committee as an open forum. I object to his using the time of the legislature and the very dome of the capitol as a sounding board."

Cannon's replies were heated. "The grounds of McGovern's argument are unwarranted," he said. "Milwaukee and 10,000 working people in the state know I am the victim of a foul frame-up and that corporations and corporation judges of Milwaukee have combined and entered a conspiracy against me."

Hits At McGovern
"McGovern is here for personal reasons. He represents the corporation judges of Milwaukee. He and his men have gone back over my life's record with a fine-toothed comb. They have felt we must get rid of Cannon. We can not do business with him bringing verdicts as he has."

"McGovern says he would raise the standards of ethics of the Milwaukee bar. But do not be deceived, gentlemen, it is outrageous, damnable hypocrisy. He was out to get me and it made little difference what the records said."

The debate became so acrimonious that Chairman Robert Nixon ordered the committee into executive session to determine how the hearing should be limited. The committee decided to give Cannon 20 minutes rebuttal and 10 minutes each for McGovern and Benjamin Poss, Milwaukee attorney, also appearing in opposition to the bill.

"You have withheld the truth," Poss said, advancing toward Cannon. "And I want to tell these gentlemen if you were in my place, you would use the word, 'liar.'"

"You called me a corporation lawyer. During my entire experience in the legal profession, I have upheld the LaFollette principles opposing corporations," Poss cited several cases on which he had worked indicating his opposition to corporations.

"The result of your trial," he told Cannon, "hinges on the reputation of five honored members of the Milwaukee bar association who investigated charges against you, and if ever a man charged with professional misconduct had a fair trial, you had it."

UTILITY GIVES UP PRIORITY RIGHTS FOR POWER DAMS

BY RUBY A. BLACK
Post-Crescent Wash. Bureau
Washington — The Wisconsin Power and Light company, Insull subsidiary, has apparently relinquished its priority rights for a license to construct five water power dams on the Wolf river in the Menominee Indian reservation.

The preliminary permit held by the company for three years expired on Tuesday, and to retain its priority rights the company would have had to mail an application for a license by Tuesday. None has been received at the federal power commission here. Of course, it can still at any time apply for a license without again getting a preliminary permit, but the field is now open and any other applicant has as much rights as the Wisconsin Power and Light company.

The preliminary permit was for dams and plants at Keshena, Falls, the Dalles, Sullivan Rapids, Big Eddy Falls and Smoky Falls, as these are the most scenic parts of the picturesque river. Many Wisconsin organizations and the state legislature have protested against granting the power license.

WOULD MAKE PARKS OF ALL RIVER BANKS

Milwaukee — (P) — An extended program of highway beautification which would transform all the river banks in the state into parks had the indorsement today of the Wisconsin Nurserymen's association.

There was only one change in the list of officers of the association elected for the ensuing year at the annual meeting last night. Carl Gerlach, Milwaukee, replaced W. G. McKay, Madison, on the board of directors. Officers reelected include: E. H. Niles, Hartland, president; L. J. Baker, Fond du Lac, vice president; M. C. Hepler, Pardeeville, secretary-treasurer.

SCHALL AGAIN ASKS O. K. FOR HIS CANDIDATE

Minnesota Senator Writes Hoover Second Time — Thinks He "Was Misled"

BULLETIN
Washington — (P) — Denial that attorney General Mitchell prevented the supreme court from passing on a $1,000,000 tax suit against a former client while he was solicitor general, as charged by Senator Schall, was made today by Assistant Attorney General Sisson.

Washington — (P) — In a new letter to President Hoover, made public today, Senator Schall, Republican, Minnesota, continued to urge Ernest A. Michel for federal judge in that state despite the refusal of the chief executive to consider the name.

"I agree with you," wrote Schall under yesterday's date, "that it would be a misfortune if Minnesota should not have the advantage of the establishment of this court during the present session of congress but I also feel that it is a greater misfortune that you have not been given a true picture of the Minnesota situation and I hope that you may have it before you act in the matter."

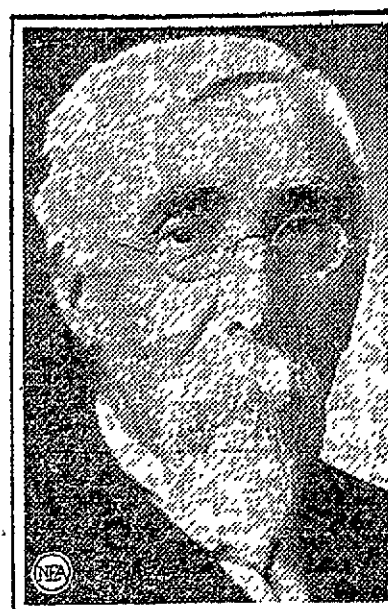

Schall inclosed a protest signed by the majority of the Minnesota state senators and Lieutenant Governor Arens, protesting the "recent unjust and undignified attacks" by Attorney General Mitchell against the appointment of Michel.

Thinks Hoover Misled
"We feel, Mr. President," it said, "that you have been grossly and deliberately misled in regard to the character and qualifications of the man who is so widely supported for this high position."

The protest asserted also the belief of the people of the state and nation that a lawyer honest and faithful to his profession should not be barred from the judiciary "because he has not served an apprenticeship in the employment of the privileged interests of this country."

The statement bore 34 signatures. Schall also inclosed a letter from State Senator Spindler who while

LABOR FAVORS PROPOSED AUTO INSURANCE BILL

Federation Counsel Says Measure Will Be Adopted in Other States

Madison — (P) — The plan of compulsory automobile insurance embodied in the bill introduced by Sen. Walter Polakowski, Milwaukee, will be followed by the majority of states within 15 years, Joseph Padway, counsel for the Wisconsin Federation of Labor, predicted here yesterday.

Mr. Padway made the prediction while arguing the merits of the bill before the senate committee on corporations and taxation. In addition to compulsory insurance, the bill sets up a state fund to be used to pay victims. It would be modeled after the State Workmen's Compensation fund.

"The fact that there were three times as many persons killed in Wisconsin by automobiles than of industry in 1930 shows the need for such a bill," Attorney Padway said. "Only from 16 to 20 per cent of the auto owners carry insurance. This leaves some 100,000 automobiles whose drivers cannot pay a judgment in case of accident."

Under the plan of the bill, every victim, whether injured through negligence of the driver or through his own carelessness, would be remunerated.

Ralph Jackman, representing the Association of Casualty Insurance executives, said the bill was faulty in that under its provisions the state would pay the Wisconsin victims of automobile from other states. By giving awards to the victim whether he was injured through his own carelessness or not, the bill would pay the jaywalker and the drunk for being negligent, he said.

On the basis of the 1930 automobile registration, the bill would get a total revenue of about $3,500,000, Mr. Jackman pointed out. This would not cover the amount paid out to automobile victims in 1930, he said. The difference between the figures, or in other words, the loss to the state, would be about $4,000,000 plus the cost of overhead and investigation of cases, Mr. Jackman said.

Trade School Students Manufacture Furniture

Six cedar chests of the latest design are being manufactured by part and full-time students in the manual training department of Appleton vocational, according to James Chadek, instructor. The youngsters also are constructing floor lamps and smoking stands, and this week they started working on dining room chair projects.

Considerable interest in furniture making and wood carving is shown by several students of the school, who are determined to make the work their future vocation, according to Mr. Chadek.

Last week the class constructed a dust-proof varnishing tent in the class room. The tent, in which all furniture is varnished, is constructed of cloth and a wood frame. No dust or grit which might be blowing around in the air can touch the newly stained and varnished furniture. Earlier in the school year the various classes constructed a new tool rack and cabinet for the school work shop. The cabinet is composed of 30 separate drawers, and the rack is capable of holding a large number of tools used by students.

THRE EBANDITS TRY TO HOLD UP CREAMERY HERE

Foiled When Employee Discloses Knowledge of Safe Combination

Three masked men attempted to rob the Fairmont Creamery Co., 116 N. Locust-st., about 6:15 last night. They failed when Ray Overton, 1115 N. Richmond-st., an employee of the company, pleaded he did not know the combination to the safe. Overton told police the three men took about $2 in cash away from him and forced him to go into the basement.

Police Chief George T. Prim immediately started an investigation, but so far he has been unable to find any trace of the bandits. Overton said he looked the creamery about 6 o'clock and started for his home. He returned, however, when he remembered that he was to bring some cream home. He had just re-opened the building, he said, when three men entered. Their faces were covered with muffs and all three carried guns. They threatened to shoot, Overton said, unless he opened the safe. He claimed he did not know the combination, he told police. One of the men then searched him, he said, took $2 and a little change and then forced him to go down into the basement, cautioning him to remain there quietly while they made their escape.

Overton climbed through a basement window, ran to a garage at the corner of College-ave and Locust-st., and told them of the robbery. Police were called and Overton ran back, secured a truck and started after the bandits who went north on Locust-st.

When the bandits saw they were being followed, Overton said, they escaped by cutting between two houses to an alley. By this time the police arrived and started a search. Overton said two of the men were quite tall, while the third was much shorter. Police followed tracks through the snow and learned that after cutting between the houses the trio parted, two going one way and the other in a different direction. From this point, however, the trail was lost.

SUBSCRIBE $1,886 IN SALE OF SEALS

About Half of Sum to Be Expended for Health Work in Appleton

The final checkup on the annual Christmas seal drive revealed that $1,886 had been subscribed this year, compared to $1,718 last year. Appleton's quota was $2,500.

One-half of the proceeds have been sent to the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association by Mrs. L. J. Marshall, local chairman. The other half, minus about $100 campaign expenses, is to be used in the promotion of health work in Appleton. A large high school and vocational school student clinic will be held in April, with the Outagamie County Medical association in charge. $200 will be used to distribute free milk to needy youngsters in the schools, and the remainder will be placed in the fund for a fresh air school. There is now $500 in the fresh air school, and until it becomes an actuality, all extra funds will be placed in the fresh air school fund.

Mrs. Marshall was assisted this year by Mrs. F. H. Haisbert, as chairman, and 12 members of the health department of the Appleton Woman's club.

Afraid Of Friday, The Thirteenth? Cheer Up--A Lot Of Others Are, Too

Superstitious? Not then you'll not watch your step today because it is Friday the 13th. Now, honest, will you not feel a wee bit nervous if you are the 13th guest at dinner today of all days... Or cross your fingers if a black cat crosses your path... Or cringe when you pass beneath a ladder? No. 13 is the monarch of hoodoos.

The superstition, some people believe, originated at the "Last Supper," attended by 13 persons of which Judas, the traitor, was the 13th. However, it is pointed out that ancient Babylon astrologers held 13 to be unlucky.

Others seek to derive the belief from old Norse mythology, according to which Baldur, the sun god, had to die because there were 13 gods in the circle in Valhalla.

Tradition says that Adam and Eve were expelled on Friday; it was on a Friday morning that Cain killed Abel and the beheading of John the Baptist as well as the crucifixion took place on Friday.

And so Friday the 13th has become a particularly ominous date in the minds of the superstitious.

Today will be a shivery one for superstitious notables, and there are many of them. At Tolson, of stage and screen, has a mortal fear of walking under a ladder—Winston Churchill, the British statesman, and Aristotle Briand, of France, will take care not to have 13 persons at their tables today... And, if Churchill makes a prophecy about trade prospects, you can rest assured he will touch wood... John Negri would rather face a Polka Negri woman than a black cat. And J. P. Cowl always touches a doll given her by David Belasco before leaving her dressing room.

Number Thirteen

In Paris there are many streets where no house bears No. 13.... Some folks think it is unlucky to move into a new home on Friday, let alone on Friday the 13th.... And whistling aboard ship will be especially taboo among sailors today.

Captain Frank Hawks, the aerial speed demon, rather likes old No. 12. He cruises in plane No. 13, his ted-

In compliance with a request from the federal treasury department, the Tapagar Construction company of Alberta, Minn., has agreed to give preference to local labor if it receives the contract to build the new Appleton postoffice. Word to this effect was received yesterday by William H. Zuehlke, acting postmaster here. The Tapagar firm was the lowest of 29 bidders when the bids were opened Monday at Washington. The federal department's wire to the Minnesota firm follows:

"Your bid low construction post office, Appleton, Wis. While specifications contain no provision requiring employment local labor to extent available at established local rates, account unemployment, department would appreciate your assurance of intention to cooperate as above indicated relative local labor and wages in effort to relieve local unemployment should contract be awarded you."

County Board Will Consider Referendum On New Courthouse

COMMITTEE HAS SEVEN SETS OF PROPOSED PLANS

Expect Supervisors Will Wage Hot Fight Over Proposal to Build at Once

Possibility of taking immediate steps to build a new courthouse will be considered at the annual spring meeting of the Outagamie county board, which starts at the courthouse next Tuesday. Giving impetus to the board's consideration of immediate building will be seven sets of plans for a proposed building presented by a special committee instructed last November to secure them.

There has been considerable talk among some of the supervisors of suggesting that the county board take steps to place a referendum before the people of the county at the spring election in April, asking them if they want to build the county a new courthouse at the present time. While some supervisors feel that the voter's attitude at present does not favor the plan, there is one group of members that feel that an educational campaign can be carried out that will enable the referendum to carry.

Reasons advanced by the proponents of the new courthouse for immediate construction include:

1. The structure can now be erected at a saving of from 15 to 25 per cent, due to the low cost of building materials.

2. Through the employment of county labor, the unemployment situation in the county would be considerably relieved.

$100,000 In Fund

3. The county now has more than $100,000 in the building trust fund. As a new courthouse could be erected at from $500,000 to $600,000, it would be necessary to bond the county only for from $400,000 to $500,000.

4. Construction of the new building would immediately afford relief for the congested condition now existing at the courthouse.

Perhaps the main reason for building the new courthouse now is to afford relief from the congested condition in the courthouse. Although the building, it was pointed out by one supervisor, was designed to utilize office space on the first and second floors, it has been necessary to press both attic and basement space into service as offices. Courtrooms are inadequate to handle the growing legal business of the county. Invaluable county records are stored in musty basement space where they are constantly in danger of loss by fire. Should they be lost there would be irreparable damage, the supervisor said.

Oppose Plan

On the other hand, there is a group of supervisors opposed to an immediate building program, because they are dedicated to a program of lower taxes. They point out that the farmer as well as the city resident is overburdened with taxes and that they will rebel at any further load.

In answer to this argument, the proponents of the new courthouse say:

"We are solving the heavy tax problem by bonding the county for a long period, thereby shifting a part of the burden of the new building to the next generation, which will get the use of the building. We admit taxes are high, but we must also remember that with the high taxes we are receiving countless advantages which we did not enjoy when the taxes were lower. If we want better things we must expect to pay for them."

There the matter rests. It probably will be settled when the board meets next week.

In addition, the board will complete its business for the year 1930.

Most of the supervisors will be candidates for reelection at the April election and the new board will convene for the first time shortly after the April election. The meeting next week will last for four days.

NEENAH MAN HEADS NEW PAPER COMPANY

De Pere Firm Reorganized With Neenah and Menasha Men as Directors

Four Neenah and a Menasha man are directors of the Nicolet Paper Corporation of De Pere, which has been reorganized. They are: William C. Wing, F. E. Ballister, and C. B. Clark of Neenah and Mervin Smith of Menasha. Mr. Clark is president. The company, which formerly was called the Nicolet Paper company, is engaged in the manufacture of glassine and grease-proof paper in the plant of the former American Writing Paper company.

The new corporation is organized to acquire the assets and property of the old company. Capitalization includes 2,000 shares of preferred stock at $100 per share and the same number of shares of common stock of the same value, a total of $400,000. Other directors, besides the Neenah and Menasha men, are: H. B. Kuhns, Chicago; Paul Bushong, Grafton, Mich.; and Arthur T. Brown, De Pere.

WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE IS ISSUE IN JAPAN

Tokio—(AP)—Voting with the majority party for the favor of Japanese women in politics, the opposition Seiyukai party today introduced a bill in the lower house which would extend suffrage to women over 20 years old. The women would be given rights with men.

The administration, which adheres to the Mutsu party, introduced a bill Tuesday providing certain suffrage rights for women over 25 years of age.

BOSCobel AROUSED BY SNAKE RACKET STAGED BY HUNTERS

Boscobel—(AP)—Petitions were circulated here today by citizens in efforts to halt what they termed a snake racket.

Several persons, they said, made quite a bit of money by hunting rattlesnakes and collecting the bounty paid by the state for the rattles. Within the past few years, it was pointed out, the amount paid out in bounties has increased, and there has been no noticeable diminution of the rattlesnakes. The racket came in, citizens said, because the hunters caught the snakes, merely removed the rattles, and turned them loose again to propagate. The petition asks the legislature to amend the present bounty law to enforce snake hunters to produce part of the snake for each set of rattles.

COLLEGE STUDENTS OFFER VAUDEVILLE

Presentation Is Made Before Large Audience at Memorial Chapel

The first all-college vaudeville at Lawrence college was given last night at Lawrence Memorial chapel. A crowd of almost 1,000 was present. Among the features was a one-act play, "In 1899," written by William C. de Mille depicting life in New York City as it will probably be 70 years from now.

A 16-piece jazz orchestra played a number of popular pieces, and Jack Melby and Polly Nennan presented a specialty valet. A quintet of "Gloomy Songsters" offered several numbers and several special "song and dance" acts, and a one-act play entitled "The Still Alarm" by George Kaufman, completed the program.

The vaudeville was presented under the direction of F. Theodore Cloak, director of dramatics at Lawrence. Alan Arthur acted as business manager and Russell Dukas as production manager. Wilbur Jackson, a sophomore at Lawrence, designed and painted the modernistic background for the orchestra.

ACCEPTANCE OF BIDS FOR BANK BONDS FAVORED

Bondholders of Bankers' Joint Stock Land Bank Approve Offer

Milwaukee—(AP)—With recommendation that the offer of A. O. Stewart, San Francisco, for bonds of the Bankers' Joint Stock Land bank of Milwaukee, be accepted were made today by the bondholders' protective committee in a letter to stockholders. The offer of B. C. Ziegler and associates, the committee said, was made to the receiver after they had refused to bid and after the Stewart offer was published. The Stewart offer provides three options:

Thirty-five per cent of the bonds in cash; a combination of 17 per cent in cash and 28 per cent in 10-year 4 1/2 per cent sinking fund bonds; and 48 per cent in bonds.

The protective committee statement revealed that the bank of Italy's Transamerica corporation "secured" the bonds. The committee recommended prompt acceptance of the proposals embodied in the Stewart offer.

The detailed statement of the committee's negotiations stated that "overtures" were made to the Ziegler firm, mortgage firm of West Bend, (Wis.), several times to obtain an offer.

Announce Ziegler Bid

"These overtures were finally ended about Dec. 15, 1930, by a statement of Mr. Ziegler's counsel that Mr. Ziegler had no bid to present to the committee," said the announcement.

The Stewart plan was then published, under date of Jan. 31, 1931. Shortly thereafter came the announcement of Mr. Ziegler's bid to the bank's receiver.

The Ziegler offer, in which the Wood Brothers, electric power, farm and stock raising firm of Lincoln, Neb., and F. W. Murphy joined, proposed to take over assets of the bank with the Ziegler firm operating the Wisconsin farms the bank's loans covered. The Woods firm would handle the Minnesota farms with Mr. Murphy, Wisconsin farms constitute about 31 per cent of the total.

The Ziegler offer provided for $5,200,000 to be paid for the bondholders to retain title to the $2,247,000 in cash and securities held by the receiver, of which more than $800,000 is now involved in litigation.

The committee objected to the latter offer in part because it does not end the receivership, which has cost $132,000 in salaries, travel and office expenses in 1930 and bids to continue costing about $350,000 every five years, according to the announcement.

MENTION CASHMAN AS OPPONENT FOR GEORGE SCHNEIDER

Rumors in the political camps at Madison are mentioning the name of State Senator John Cashman as a possible opponent for Congressman George J. Schneider of the ninth district in 1932. Some Progressives there are talking of Cashman's strength and pointing out that Schneider is not as popular with the Madison leadership as he might be. At least, so the political seers at the state capital say. However, Schneider probably is not under the ban to the same extent as are Congressmen Fear and John M. Nelson. The rumors claim that if Senator Cashman bows to the Progressive line, without swerving during the present senatorial session, that the Madison leadership will not be unfriendly to his ambitions.

DORO CANDIDATE FOR SEAT ON COUNCIL

Entrance into Race Brings Out Opposition in Every Ward in City

With the entrance of John Doro, 1420 S. Jefferson-st., into the aldermanic race Friday morning, there is competition in all wards in the city. Prior to the circulation of Mr. Doro's papers, the Fourth ward was the only ward with only a single candidate. Mr. Doro comes out as opposition to R. P. McGillan, incumbent.

J. Henry Fiedler of the Sixth ward has been considering running for a seat in the council, but as yet has not definitely decided. There are rumors of other Sixth and Fifth ward candidates.

MUTILATED MONEY RECOVERED BY U. S.

Federal Authorities Continue Their Search for Mail Robbers

Washington—(AP)—The mutilated currency stolen by thugs early yesterday in the Union station was discovered by police today in an uptown alley.

The three registered mail pouches in which the worthless pieces of money were being shipped from the Federal Reserve bank in New York to the treasury here were not located. The bills, worth $807,000 had been the whole, were wrapped in 11 bundles and found near 14th and T-sts, N. W.

In another alley nearby, police found several packages of shotgun shells, from which the shot had been extracted and steel slugs inserted. They continued the search for the three or four robbers believed to be involved in the crime, hoping to connect the abandoned money and the shells.

The hold-up, labeled by treasury officials as a "gold brick" robbery, took place shortly after 2 o'clock a. m., yesterday. Two thugs rushed Peter Johnson, an armed mail clerk, and after disarming him, they carried the sacks to a waiting car and escaped.

Postal inspectors and police found three lead pipes and received testimony from a Negro porter who was pulling the mail truck that a third man had rushed him from a different direction. Although obtaining only a meagre description of two of the men, authorities instituted a search for four persons, since it was believed a fourth had operated the waiting car.

NO NEED FOR PLOWS IN SPITE OF SNOW STORM

As good a magnet as the molasses barrel to flies, the storm yesterday drew a huge number of men to the city barns this morning, all seeking a few hours work with snow shovels. However, inasmuch as it was not necessary to send out the plows, no new men were hired. The three or four inches of snow on the streets packed so readily that the plows were not put in operation, though several men were sent out this morning to shovel streets. Last night a heavy snow storm, which lasted until 9 o'clock clattering hills, arterial steps and dangerous curves.

Another snow storm will necessitate the use of the plow, which will call for the employment of extra men.

FASHION SHOP OPENS DOORS NEXT WEEK IN ZUELKE BUILDING

Informal Opening Set for Tuesday, Herbert Goldberg Announces

The informal opening of the new Fashion Shop in the Irving Zuelke building at College-ave and Oneida-st. will be held next Tuesday it was announced this morning by Herbert Goldberg, proprietor. The store will move from old quarters at 303 W. College-ave to the Zuelke building Sunday.

The formal opening will be held in conjunction with the annual spring opening of Appleton retail merchants on March 12, 13 and 14. Plans for the opening are now being arranged by the chamber of commerce, merchant's committee. The shop will occupy space on the main floor.

An ultra-modern idea in the display of merchandise is to be put into force in the Fashion Shop. Unique show cases, all electrically equipped, have been installed. Hosiery and lingerie cases carry stock in trays all under glass and lighted with modern fixtures. Stock cabinets are all of oriental walnut enclosed and dust proof, protecting merchandise.

Unique Lighting System

The rear of the store is featured by two massive pillars of quarter matched oriental walnut leading into the lounge and fitting rooms. In back of the lounge the wall is paneled with 30 quartz mirrors.

The lighting system also is unique, all indirect lamps glowing at perfect daylight and eliminating shadows. Moving fans which serve both as heating and ventilating systems have been installed.

The millinery section is designed in semi-modern art, and also is of oriental walnut, featuring quarter cut and natural matched wood. Mirrors in the millinery department are all beveled cut. Tables and chairs are in keeping with the store, also being constructed of oriental walnut. On the floor, which is to be covered with green velvet rug, will be quaint "love seats" of red shades backed with black silk "frizel".

The display windows are in six sections, two facing College-ave and four Oneida-st. The corner window is the feature of the display system. A unique display niche has been constructed in the corner pillar of the building.

THOMPSON ADVISES HOAN TO SCRUB HIS OWN DOORSTEP FIRST

Milwaukee—(AP)—A letter from the Hon. William Hale Thompson, mayor of Chicago, lay on the desk of Mayor Daniel W. Hoan of Milwaukee today.

The letter was apropos of the mayor of Milwaukee's recent remarks before a Chicago organization that Chicago's crime "smelled so bad we can smell it clear up to Milwaukee."

This is what the letter said: "I enclose herewith federal government report showing Milwaukee 47th in crime and Chicago, 68th, and just to remind you it would be well for you in the future to tend to your own business about Chicago crime and heed the admonishment of the pope when he was once asked what would be his answer, having been asked the question, 'How to best reform the world?' he replied, 'I would advise everyone to scrub their own doorstep tomorrow morning.'"

"When you get through scrubbing Milwaukee's doorstep, you will have less time to criticize Chicago's conditions."

"Sincerely,
"William Hale Thompson Mayor."

Mr. Hoan had no comment to make when first notified of the contents of the letter, but promised a snappy comeback.

The Sentinel said the figures quoted by Mayor Thompson were made by the head of the Chicago Municipal library and not by the government and were based only on the number of known offenses in a ratio to the known population.

HEAVY SNOW COVERS APPLETON, VICINITY

Five Inches Falls in Few Hours—Cold Wave on Weather Menu

The most severe snow storm this winter swept through Appleton Thursday and in a few hours the landscape was blanketed with five inches of heavy snow. The storm covered the entire Fox river valley. Little or no snow was reported in the western part of the state.

The heavy, wet snow was plastered against trees, shrubbery and buildings, adding considerable beauty to the landscape, but making motoring hazardous. On several occasions Thursday afternoon the snow fell in such large quantities that motorists were forced to "abandon the highway."

Friday morning, with the mercury registering 12 to 14 degrees above zero, motoring was even more hazardous, a thick sheet of icy snow covering the highways.

A moderate cold wave which probably will send the mercury bobbing to the zero mark is due to invade Appleton and vicinity Friday night, the weatherman says.

Skies will be clear tonight and Saturday, he says. Winds are shifting in the north and northwest, a good indication that much colder weather is on the way.

LISTS FUNDAMENTAL RULES FOR WOMEN IN FINANCE WORLD

Chicago Woman Succeeds in Political, Financial and Social Fields

Chicago—(AP)—Mrs. Bertha Baur, who has succeeded in the political, financial and social fields in a big way, is at work on a book intended as an outline of fundamental principles of intelligent participation in finance for women.

It is entitled "A. B. C. of Finance for Women," and follows in the footsteps of her "A. B. C. of Politics for Women."

When her husband, Jacob Baur, died in 1912 Mrs. Baur assumed management of his estate, valued at $2,000,000. She has increased it to many times that amount. She is now Republican committee woman from Illinois. In addition she has won a place in the social world. Her daughter, Miss Rosemary Baur, as well as herself have been presented at the Court of St. James. When Queen Marie of Rumania visited this country she was entertained at tea at Mrs. Baur's.

It is Mrs. Baur's contention that there are neither men nor women in finance—there is only intelligence.

"If a woman has intelligence, that quality is given her in the same respect and consideration that it would be accorded in a man—no more or less."

The average woman, in her opinion, does not realize how much time she wastes until she has lived a life with every moment fully and profitably occupied.

"But time spent in study is never wasted. I am a graduate lawyer, and although I have never practiced law, my legal knowledge has been of inestimable value to me in other things."

Some time ago she said she formulated 10 rules for success. They are as follows:

1. Don't ever give up the quest for knowledge—and more knowledge.

2. Learn to execute the knowledge you get.

3. Have the feeling in your mind that, you can do anything in business that anyone else can.

4. Have perseverance; don't

PRODUCERS OF MILK ORGANIZE NEW BRANCHES

Speakers Tell About Similarities With Chicago Cooperatives

BY W. F. WINSEY

According to speakers at organization meetings now being held in the Appleton milk producing area, the plan of Pure Milk products' Cooperative is the same as that of the milk producing association that supplies Chicago with milk but broader in scope so as to include milk delivered to creameries and condensers.

A year or more ago, Wisconsin milk producers were attempting to organize local units and to become a part of the Chicago milk producers' marketing association but later that plan was abandoned because it did not meet the requirements of the Wisconsin milk producers and the Pure Milk Products' Cooperative was originated by farmers with the assistance of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture and the Department of Agriculture and Markets.

The state board of directors of the Pure Milk Products' Cooperative is now composed of a representative from each of the 12 local branches in the state. The state board of directors elects officers, does the general business of the cooperative, and sends out fieldmen in company with others of the department of markets to assist local branches.

In a short time the state, it is said, will be divided into eight districts, each district is to be provided with its own board of directors and officers. The district directors will be representatives of the board of directors of the local branches. The state board of directors will be composed of one representative from each of the proposed eight districts.

Exclusive Control
Each local unit as the Appleton or New London branch will have exclusive control of its own marketing business but on request will be assisted by the district and state organizations.

Tests, Markets Milk
The purpose of the Pure Milk Products' Cooperative is to weigh, test and market milk and sweet cream in the most profitable markets.

As in all other business and manufacturing enterprises the membership contract is an iron clad partnership agreement that can not be broken by a partner farmer nor by a buyer of dairy products. It is patterned after the contract signed by members of the Northern Tobacco Pool. The latter has been very successful and has stood the test of the courts.

The signed contract is the foundation of the Pure Milk Products' Cooperative as it is of the Northern Tobacco Pool. Without the signed contract, neither cooperative could do business nor would be successful in the price-bargaining game.

The contract is nothing more than a signed agreement between two or more neighboring farmers to market their milk cooperatively instead of competing with each other in individual marketing and selling at starvation prices made by milk dealers. The signed contract gives the two or more farmers who sign it volume of product and the power that goes with volume in marketing.

The agreement a three way contract. It makes provision for checking weights and tests in milk plants, bargaining for the sale of milk, and operating milk plants. It is useless for patrons of a cheese factory to sign the contract as cheese factories are not to be disturbed by the cooperative. The contract does not bind the signer to continue delivering his milk to a milk plant, that is to say the contract is only an agreement between farmers and milk plants. No immediate change in the places of milk deliveries will be made, but when 60 per cent of the patrons of a plant are signed, weights and tests will be checked.

The checking is done by a man employed by the local branch. Bargaining for the sale of milk will be taken up as soon as the local branch with the assistance of state officials are ready for those activities.

On signing the contract, the milk producer pays a fee of $3 or as soon thereafter as it is convenient for him to do so. The money remains in the treasury of the local branch until 50 per cent of the patrons of a milk plant are signed up. At that time a part of the initiation fee goes to the state organization to defray the expenses of fieldmen and the balance is returned to the treasury of the local.

As soon as a local installs a man in a milk plant to check weights and tests, two cents per hundred of milk is deducted from the monthly milk bill of each patron of the plant, the money to be used in paying the salary of the check tester. In cases of small plants with few patrons, the check tester will do his work at regular or irregular intervals, and will pass from one small plant to the next.

In this vicinity check testers are already at work in the New London and Clintonville and Appleton. They will soon be installed in the Nichols plant. Check testers are at work also in five other condenseries of Wisconsin and seven more will soon begin work.

As soon as the 1,200 milk producers in the Appleton territory sign the contract of the local branch they will have the largest and most powerful milk marketing organization in Wisconsin.

RECORD NUMBER OF SUICIDES IN STATE

Madison — (P) — Suicides reached the highest mark in the state's history in 1930, according to statistics announced today by the state board of health's bureau of vital statistics. There were 546 deaths from suicide, the bureau said in announcing the total represented a 21 per cent increase over 1929. This was 95 cases more than the previous year. "Last May's total of 64 suicides in the state marked the highest monthly toll in Wisconsin's annals," the bureau said today. "Students of the subject have long maintained that, contrary to popular belief, melancholia is more intense in spring than in fall."

Your Birthday

If February 14th is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 12:30 p. m., from 4 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to midnight. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 9 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:30 p. m. Disturbing astrological influences are predicted for this date, with accompanying unrest and tension. Concentration will be difficult and time and money will be wasted in "pottering." If diffusion of thought and effort can be avoided, other conditions favor advancement and success.

The child born on this February 14th will be obedient, thoughtful, unselfish, dependable, and of little worry to its parents. It will be a methodical worker at school and otherwise, and will take a pride in its work. It will have enough spunk to do its own fighting, although it will prefer peace.

You are introspective, egocentric, and self-centred, and your mind and activities are always focused on yourself and your own particular interests. You catalogue the importance of people and things, according to the amount they benefit you personally. An impersonal attitude is difficult for you to assume, and you are incapable of comprehending the beauties of those things which only exist in the spiritual planes of thought. You are a slow moving, conservative, and ruthlessly ambitious type. Woe be it to him who dares to interfere with the fulfillment of any of your cherished dreams! You know how to be spiteful, and resentment often distorts your judgment and kinder senses. You delight in what you believe is "getting even."

Your great saving grace is an amazing sense of duty. You never let any one down, when duty is pestering your conscience, although you do not always fill its demands with good grace, or a smile. You resent, even implied criticisms of your conduct, no matter how guilty you may be. You are your own judge and jury. You snap your fingers at custom and tradition, and it can be truthfully said that you have little sentiment.

For the sake of harmony, you must be "boss" within the home, be you a man or woman. Although you will aim to be fair, it will be difficult for your husband or wife, as the case may be, to talk things over with you, without a display of impatience or temper on your part.

PLAYING UP TO ONTARIO

"If Wisconsin wants to get domestic rates as low as the lowest rates in Ontario, it can get them fast without taking the gamble of putting the state in the public utility business; it can get these rates by giving Wisconsin utilities the same aid which Ontario gives the hydro-electric commission in taxes alone," said Ralph E. Moody, an executive assistant to the Milwaukee Electric Company in opposing the proposed utility measure at Madison.

Mr. Moody made a strong speech, perhaps too strong. He claimed further that if the state of Wisconsin "will pass a law cancelling the taxes of the utilities, the Electric Company will cut its domestic rates in two" and in connection with electric service to farms he said that "if the state of Wisconsin will subsidize 50 per cent of the cost of the rural lines as Ontario does, every farm in this state will be supplied with electricity," and that if Wisconsin will "give us the aid that Ontario is getting, we will match every item in rates. If you don't believe we're serious just call us."

Mr. Moody may be entirely sincere though he uses the form quite often used with a thing known as the bluff. He knows there isn't any chance of being called. Without turning our state topsy-turvy from one end to the other, we cannot alter a system so entirely different from that prevailing in Ontario. Mr. Moody is safe from the embarrassment of a show-down.

Nevertheless there is food for reflection in all the facts that come from Ontario showing that its electric system is not the kindly Santa Claus it has been painted.

It isn't so long ago that we had a candidate for governor in Wisconsin who publicly claimed the electric rates in this state were ten times those in Ontario. Such an attempt to mislead the public, or such crass ignorance upon the part of a public man, is wholly inexcusable.

A comparison of the figures between any utilities must always be made with allowance for the substantial difference in conditions that exist. The Ontario utility pays no taxes. Our utilities pay millions. In Ontario the government pays 50 per cent of the cost of rural lines without charging it to the utility. Our government pays nothing. What an enormous difference in rates that one item makes. Keeping out of its cost the millions that are thus expended it does not have to earn a return upon those millions.

The great difference between Ontario and our rates is the small rate there given to the home owners. The large rates that are prevalent in Wisconsin may be justifiable although we may be excused for doubting that the difference in expense of furnishing the home owner and the business house or factory justifies the great disparity in the charge inflicted upon the former.

ANOTHER RAIN-MAKER

The Pied Piper of Hamelin has a great-great-grandson. The Pied Piper, you may remember, offered to remove all the rats from Hamelin Town if the council would give him enough guilders. But when the last gray rat had tumbled into the river the council changed its mind, so the merry Piper did a wholesale kidnapping stunt and locked the children up in a hill.

Now Dr. George Ambrosius Immanuel Morrison Sykes, the director of an organization which he calls the Weather Control Bureau, has made an offer to the five boroughs of New York City that he will replenish the city's water supply at the rate of $25,000 an inch or for a flat guarantee of $350,000 for 12 inches of rain over a period of 90 days.

More than a year ago, at the Belmont races, Dr. Sykes had a contract to receive $100 a day if he could hold off the rain that week. But the last day it sprinkled occasionally so he had to forfeit $2,000, although he received payment for the other days.

If Dr. Sykes is able to take charge of the rain, people with too much money will have another diversion. They can call up the weather magnate and prescribe the kind that they want.

Farmers will be able to chip in and order so many inches of rain in the way that they cooperate to buy feed by the carload.

Weather forecasters won't know what to prescribe.

The water witches, who used to go around the country locating hidden springs with a crocheted stick, could have asked more money if they had drawn their water from the sky instead of the earth.

But we'll take a raincoat along only when the government meteorologists say it is going to storm.

A LACK OF VISION

Dr. Lynn Bowman, director of morals at the Eastern penitentiary in Pennsylvania, has announced that the average age of the prisoners in that institution is 26 years. Youth, so it appears, is leading the gangland procession on its sinister, downward march.

This condition does not necessarily mean that the world is growing worse, or that youth today is defying conventions any more than it ever did.

Robin Hood, the outlaw of literature, was young. So were Ali Baba and his 40 thieves. Pirates of the dark ships whose crimson lights flashed dangerously, now and then, on the buccanering seas, were never old. The men who robbed stage coaches and held up the mail weren't afflicted with years. Older men plot wrongs in a den some place or back of a swivel-top desk. Youth puts on a mask, takes a "gat" and starts out. The youth gets caught.

The adventure spirit is stronger in young men than in old. Their blood is warmer. They want to be doing things and if they aren't given an opportunity to do something that is helpful they will do something that is destructive. Youth needs to have its energy directed, not restricted.

The average educational grade of the Eastern penitentiary is lower than the fourth grade, according to Dr. Bowman. This is proof that it is lack of training and direction, to a large extent, that causes youth to err. A mind that hasn't finished the routine of the first four primary grades has little ballast to keep it from veering with the wind.

There is another striking statement in Dr. Bowman's summary. He says that no boy committed to the Eastern penitentiary had paid any attention to religion for at least six months before the commission of his crime.

There were no ideals for which the youthful bandits were aiming. They hadn't been anywhere, or come in contact with anyone, who could inspire them, give them a vision, send them out to accomplish something worth while.

Long ago a prophet said that where there is no vision the people perish. It holds true with the prison group.

But another master teacher remarked one day that if you train up a child in the way that he should go when he is old he will not depart from it.

It seems that society, that mythical term applied to the general relationship of all men, in order to give personal responsibility to a loop-hole of escape, has erred sadly.

It needs to marshal youth in such a way that it will follow the flame of a crimson banner that goes out to right wrong instead of do wrong.

Today's Anniversary

JOHN HUNTER'S BIRTH
On Feb. 13, 1728, John Hunter, a celebrated English physiologist and surgeon, whose researches led to important advances in surgery, was born in Glasgow, Scotland, the youngest of 10 children.

He received his medical training at Chelsea Hospital, in London, where his progress in surgery was so rapid that, in the second session, he was able to instruct pupils in dissecting. He was applied for appointment in the British army and was immediately made staff surgeon. After serving through the Seven Years' War he settled in London where, in 1785, he built his famous museum in which he studied creatures from all over the globe. At the time of his death his museum contained 10,562 specimens and preparations illustrative of human and comparative anatomy.

Hunter is famed particularly for his cure of aneurism, a form of tumor.

The five Nobel prizes, averaging about $40,000 each annually, are awarded from a fund bequeathed by Noble, a Swedish inventor, to the persons who have made the greatest contributions to medicine, physics, chemistry, literature and peace.

Scientists are considering a plan to transmit electric power from Norway to Germany by way of Sweden and Denmark at 250,000 volts pressure, by a cable line that would cross the sea on high towers.

During the first year under prohibition there were 29,000 cases instituted, while, during the last fiscal year there were close to 70,000.

GOSH, JUST think what day today is . . . how we hated to get up this morning and go any place . . . why the front steps might have been icy, there might have been ground glass in the coffee . . . somebody might have stolen the car . . . and somebody else might have been sitting at our desk when we get down to the office . . . and our bank account might have been overdrawn again . . . and we—oh, it's too painful to think about . . . but today is FRIDAY THE 13TH . . .

People get more and more unkind. For instance, a wildcat happened to wander into Grand Rapids, Michigan. They chased him into a garage and started the motor of the car. It wasn't long before the poor animal was overcome and passed out. Then they tied him up, revived him and stuck him in the zoo.

If he'd wandered into New York they would have probably taken him to a night club. In Chicago, they could have put him in Mayor Thompson's office.

In Appleton—one guess is all you get.

A bandit—quiet new at the game—tried a holdup. Then he shot himself. Now if that idea could just be popularized among the stockup boys, the newspapers would have less to print, although there would be at least one good story every day—"249 BANDITS COMMIT SUICIDE, NEW RECORD."

Today is Friday the 13th. Don't buy any stock, play cards with strangers or bite police dogs—or policemen, either.

We have it, from very uncertain sources, that Appleton's contribution to the Red Cross relief fund for starving AMERICANS will be used to send them Christmas cards next winter.

Or to donate free peanuts at the circuses next summer.

At any rate, not much, be it Christmas cards or peanuts.

But why should people around here be bothered? Most of us have enough to eat.

We understand that some of the boy scout leaders were quite perturbed over a comment we made a few days ago. St'oo bad, because we're pretty fond of the boy scouts, used to carry a scout ax and wear badges ourself.

But, in any event, no apologies.

Charlie Chaplin has just turned down an advertising agency's offer of $550,000 to talk for fifteen minutes each week for six months over the radio. Tsk, tsk, Charlie, wotta guy you turned out to be. (What agency was that? We're a pretty funny fella ourself.)

RESULT

We live our little lives with countless frettings. Always our blunders leave us vain regrettings. Always with careless step the toy is broken. We hold our tongue to find we should have spoken.

We speak in haste when silence had been better. We wish we had or had not burned the letter. Nothing is clear—some morrow tells the story! Our least of deeds may be our greatest glory!

We think this good or bad but are not certain. Upon the future none can lift the curtain. There is upon this earth no sage adviser. Who will not leave us wishing he'd been wiser. No man can tell precisely what's the right thing; Joy and despair may hinge upon a slight thing. Here lies a task we do it, or we shunt it. And later wish we had or had not done it.

Turn right or left; go one way or another. Too late 'twill be to wish we'd gone the other. What lies an hour away we'll not discover. Until we've marched these sixty minutes over. There is no safety and no sure way ever. Word in advance tomorrow sends us never. We can but do our best when problems try us. And trust in God and luck will justify us. (Copyright, 1931, Edgar A. Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

SO THIS IS NEWS TO LITTLE WILLIE?

Once upon a time universities and doctors relied upon the excellence of their service to insure the patronage of the public. Now they issue bulletins.

A recent skillfully prepared bulletin from a university expatiated the modern conception of the conservation of the teeth. This, as we have endeavored to teach, is that the soundness of the teeth is a question, not of so-called mouth or dental hygiene, but of nutrition. Here I must smirk at dentists who owe their education to the brush and nostrum business. These are the agents that promote the vulgar notion that hygiene is a bifidulal word for loud and showy cleanliness, surface polish, in fact snobbishness. I have a large collection of letters from such dentists and if I were to print a few selections from them you'd be amused.

The bulletin did not make it clear that this modern conception of dental hygiene has been worked out by real authorities. Instead it played up the name of a dentist who holds a teaching position in the university and expounded the whole thing as his theory. The dentist who readily played the role of wizard in the comic opera bulletin was shrewd enough to acknowledge nutrition the dominant factor, but yet skilful enough to include an explanation of the buffer action of mineral salts in the blood and tissues which protects the tooth structure from the solvent action of acids which form or accumulate in a state of acidosis.

The dentist's explanation of all this was as hazy and complicated as the usual attempt of a dentist to deal with a medical problem. Even a professional student is confused by the professor's involved reasoning. The lay reader of the bulletin will probably feel impelled to run right down to the corner and get something to keep down that acid.

In publishing the bulletin one editor facetiously remarked that it would come as welcome news to little Willie.

Oh, yeah? I'd say if it to that—if it is news and if little Willie's old man doesn't subscribe for this paper. From the letters I infer that little Willie gives this column the o.o. for himself occasionally, an' so when Ma or Pa pesters him about brushing his teeth he has a perfectly good excuse, for he can refer 'em to Ole Doc Brady, who is always happy to assure anxious mothers, fond aunts or ambitious fathers that so far as sound teeth are concerned it doesn't matter one jot or tittle whether a fellow ever brushes 'em or not.

Cleaning the teeth is something only a dentist or dental hygienist can do anyway. Daily brushing is merely an esthetic practice and has nothing to do with hygiene, health or the conservation of the teeth.

If anybody asks what about these great university authorities . . . just remember the fable of the fourteen thousand doctors who, for a complimentary smoke chorused "Yes Yes" when the tobacco man asked whether the smoke soothed the larynx. If doctors sing for smoke what do you think it would cost to get a dentist to theorize along a certain line about acids attacking the teeth?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Should Smokers Sing?

I smoke about a pack of cigarettes a day. Would this account for a roughness of my voice? I depend in part on my singing for a living . . . (C. A.)

Answer—Excessive smoking is injurious to the throat. I should think a smoker ought not to sing at all, in public. How about a little self-treatment to break the smoking habit? I'll mail you instructions if you ask for it. Perhaps you would find the England gargle valuable for use just before singing—send stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for directions for preparing and using the gargle.

What Kids Put In Their Nostrils
Our three year old son has fine health but for several months he has had a foul nasal discharge, always from the right side only, and there is a bad odor with it . . . (R. E.)

Answer—Perhaps the child has a foreign body of some kind lodged in the nostril.

A Bystander In Washington

BY HERBERT PLUMMER
Washington— There's a bowling alley at Fifth street and New York avenue in the capital, where at various times during the week one is likely to encounter a half-dozen well known men rolling duckpins.

Five of them are United States senators, and the sixth is a former senator who is now a judge on the United States court of customs and patent appeals. All are Republicans. The senators are Hiram Bingham of Idaho, Hale of Maine, Hastings of Delaware, McMillan of South Dakota, Bingham of Connecticut. The judge is Irving L. Lenroot of Wisconsin.

With coats of, sleeves rolled up, the sextette enters the game with enthusiasm. They laugh and joke together at each roll.

From all reports Senator Hale seems to hold a slight edge over the others. His best performance to date has been four strikes for a score of 152, Hastings of Delaware is also adept. The other afternoon he was proud of his score of 110.

Plays Impresario
Rep. Ruth Bryan Owen has assumed the role of amateur impresario among her many other duties.

At an afternoon musicale recently she presented to a select group of her Washington friends the baritone, Benjamin De Loache, of the Philadelphia opera company.

The Florida representative "found" young De Loache four years ago through her sons John Bryan and Reginald, who are close friends of his. Since that time she has interested herself in his career.

Mrs. Owen is an accomplished musician, playing the piano and several other instruments. Her favorite is the accordion. Though she denies that she can sing, her friends say differently.

She has delighted them more than once with her soldier songs—tunes she learned during the many months she spent in British hospitals and camps during the world war.

Capital Glimpses
Senator Borah of Idaho speeding down Pennsylvania avenue to the capitol in his snappy little roadster. . . .

Walsh of Montana doing the same thing, but taking the driving job more seriously. . . . And McKellar of Tennessee pulling away from his downtown hotel on a Sunday afternoon, evidently off for a spin in the country.

Jack Garner, the democratic leader of the house, with Mrs. Garner at a movie late in the afternoon; the Texan apparently enjoying hugely the stage show depicting the old-time "opry house". . . . Pat Harrison of Mississippi, hat on and coat over his arm, leaving the senate chamber Saturday afternoon, perhaps for the first time at the Burning Tree club, and hurriedly giving some instructions to a page. . . .

Senator Norris, of Nebraska, without his overcoat on a cold morning, strolling with Elaine of Wisconsin, buttoned up and wearing a black derby, from the senate office building to the capitol. . . .

A famous music publisher made several worthy philanthropies. It remained for the facetious headline writer to remark that he benefited charities to the tune of $193,000.

Then there was the young Scotchman who took up economics in the belief it would give him some new ideas on thrift.

Owen D. Young says he is not a candidate for president. He'll stick to his plans.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—A former office slave turned fiction writer found that with success in his new field he had a lot of leisure he hadn't thought about.

It seems that three or four hours a day is sufficient for a craftsman of letters to do his stint and these hours usually were consumed before lunch. Thus the afternoon was left free and, after a while, empty.

Picture shows soon palled and after that strolls around town. Then, while his friends labored at their desks, our novelist found himself alone with nowhere to go.

He then made a sudden discovery. "You can get a liberal education free in New York," he said, "breathe less from his mind, 'if you don't have fallen arches.'"

Learning Gratis
The writer was correct. The multiplicity of lectures, museums, concerts and exhibitions are an informal university. Excursions into the various neighborhoods of New York are almost equally instructive.

On a single evening one could explore the spirit world with the Society for Psychical Research or go to Brooklyn and listen to a lecture on "Ourselves and the Universe."

Or he could go up to Columbia university and hear about "Art in the Western World," if he didn't care to hear Floyd Dell on "Love in the Machine Age," or was too bashful to attend the debate elsewhere on the question, "Is Monogamy Desirable?"

Meanwhile talks were also offered on "Personality Adjustment in Business," "What Newspaper Advertising Can and Should Accomplish," "The Art and Why One Writes a Novel," "Great Poets of the World," "The Wild Grizzlies of Alaska," and "War Dances from Europe," by such eminent lecturers as Andre Maurois, John Cowper Powys and Prof. Frankfort Pospisil.

Museum Laboratories
These evening courses, many of them are philanthropically endowed through such organizations as the People's Institute, the Rand School of Social Science, the Ethical Culture society, the Brooklyn Institute of Arts and Sciences, and the New York Academy of Sciences.

And for resident New Yorkers an afternoon in one of the 15 or more museums may be informative instead of tiring.

The Museum of Natural History with its dinosaurs and other forms of primitive life in preservation, the art museums, the aquarium, the zoo and shrines of American history contain a wealth of lore which many find surprisingly engrossing.

One may even study languages through the talking pictures, for there are in New York theaters exhibiting talkies in German, French, Yiddish, Hungarian, Swedish and Russian. On the Bowery Chinese plays are produced, there are several Italian theaters, and in Greenwich Village one Irish playhouse.

Furthermore, he may have as teacher, in some instances, a favorite star, for Grete Garbo is appearing in a German "Annie Christie" and Maurice Chevalier in a French version of "The Playboy of Paris."

Does anybody, you may well demand, really attempt to make the most of all these marvelous educational opportunities? I dare say no one does.

EVIDENCE SEEN OF RECOVERY IN STOCK MARKET

Unusual Advance at Present Time Not Justified, However

Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—(CPA)—
With the markets closed Thursday
Wall Street students of price movements had an opportunity to look back calmly over the record of the past 17 months since stocks reached the summit in 1929 and to endeavor to forecast the future. The trend since the first of this year has an important bearing in this investigation.

From the top of the market on Sept. 19, 1929, 50 representative stocks declined an average of 143 points, or 48 per cent to mid-day on Nov. 13 when the Rockefeller order to buy 1,000,000 shares of Standard Oil of New Jersey at 50 checked the decline. In the following five months, there was an average advance in industrial stocks of 96 points and in rails of about 30 points. This carried the market through the unfortunate spring rise and to a level quite unwarranted by all conditions bearing on values.

From the top of this major recovery, stocks had a secondary reaction which continued with occasional interruptions from about the middle of April to the middle of December last year and was expressed in a decline of 110 points in the average of 50 issues.

Large Net Decline
Consequently the market on Dec.
17 last was about 30 points on the average lower than in November, 1929. Whereas the break in the autumn of that year had been 48 per cent, the net decline of the bear market from September, 1929, to December, 1930, was 87 per cent, or 477 points.

Now as to the recovery from the low level in the week prior to Christmas. This did not amount to a great deal in the closing days of the year.
The improvement set in with the turn of the new year. It has continued in February and has gained momentum in the past week. Represented in the averages, it shows a recovery of 30 points to date. Expressed in another way, approximately 15 per cent of the maximum average decline that occurred in a fifteen months' reaction has taken place in less than a month and a half.

Because the market had been so thoroughly liquidated during the second phase of the bear movement, there is argument for another decided upward trend which may carry through the winter and into the spring when more evidence should normally be produced of a pick-up in business than occurs at this season of the year. There is ample defense for the argument that at least 25 per cent of the entire decline of 1929-1930 should occur as a reflection entirely of the changed technical condition of the market from one that was decidedly unfavorable to one that is more favorable than in many years. A greater advance than this, on the other hand, would not be justified so long as the signs of business improvement are so faint and the prospect is ahead of many dividend reductions which will change the price status and the investment basis of numerous stocks.

An unknown quantity in the situation is the mood of the short interest which has had the severest licking this week in several years and may be affected by the same kind of psychology that moved millions of investors in the mass to sell out their stocks in the latter part of 1930. Technical conditions frequently play a much more important part in regulating the movements of stock prices than factors directly responsible for actual values of securities.

SHERIFF ARRANGES REGULAR VISITING HOURS FOR JAIL

Sheriff John Lappen announced this morning that regular visiting hours will go into effect at the county jail at once.
The sheriff said that visitors are becoming so numerous that their presence interferes with the work of the department. The visiting hours in the future, according to Sheriff Lappen, will be from 2 to 4 o'clock Tuesday and Thursday afternoons, and from 7 to 9 o'clock Thursday evenings.
No visitors will be allowed on Saturdays and Sundays, except for emergencies. The sheriff pointed out that Saturday is cleaning day and the presence of visitors interferes with the work.

CRITICS FIRE AT SCOTLAND YARDS; BYNG MAY RESIGN

Claim Detectives Have Poor Records and Are Shirking Duties

London—(AP)—Scotland Yard and London's metropolitan police may be on the spot for a shake-up.

So far the attack is taking two angles. One is a demand for the resignation of Lord Byng of Vimy, as commissioner of police. The other insists that the detective force is not as bright as it should be.

Lord Byng is 63, and in recent months has been in poor health. He is spending the winter on the Riviera and intends to remain there until April.

The usual age for retirement is 60 or above, and it is on the score of his age that Lord Byng's resignation is being urged. In addition it is maintained that he cannot keep the proper control of the force from a distance.

Lord Byng, however, says he has no intention of resigning and he is supported by Home Secretary Clynes.

The hero of Vimy Ridge, and former governor-general of Canada, was made commissioner of police two and a half years ago to "clean up" Scotland Yard.

There had been several Hyde Park cases involving women and prominent men, in which the integrity of the police had been questioned. Further, police were said to be winking at bookies and night clubs.

Byng, a strict disciplinarian with a long army record, tightened up the force at once. Penalties were increased for constables and detectives who were lax in their duties.

This naturally proved irksome for the department and some dissatisfaction within the force has appeared.

Scotland Yard represents the entire 20,000 of the Metropolitan police force; but it is also headquarters and the home of the Criminal Investigation Department (Sherlock Holmes' C. I. D.) with its 1,000 detectives—in the popular mind that whole show. Its history goes back to 1829.

Operations are not confined to London, and on request the Yard will assist in the solution of crime anywhere in England.

Its physical set-up is much like that of a comparable body in any American city and its detectives are not infallible. Within three years there have been 24 unsolved murders. In January of this year there were three.

One newspaper, which editorially demands Byng's resignation, sees a "serious political crisis rapidly developing" while another has the headline "Growing Public Alarm While Police Harass Innocent Citizens."

76 COUNTY STUDENTS AT STATE UNIVERSITY

Seventy-six Outagamie-co students are attending school at the University of Wisconsin this year, according to E. M. Gorrow, field representative for the university extension division. Wisconsin is this year represented by 6,569 students this year, 4,406 men and 2,163 women, according to Mr. Gorrow. Dane-co again leads this year with 1,966 students at the school and Milwaukee-co is second with 1,119 students.

DOUGHNUTS ARE BETTER IF COOKED A FEW AT A TIME

Likewise Coffee Has More Delicious Flavor When Roasted in Small Lots

Experience shows that if too many doughnuts are put into the hot fat at once, the cooking process is hindered. The temperature of the fat is reduced and the doughnuts become greasy.

A similar situation occurs when coffee is roasted in bulk. It is difficult to apply the heat evenly, and as a result some of the coffee berries may be overdone and some underdone. Such variation in the roast causes disappointing variation in flavor.

Hills Bros. overcame this by inventing and patenting a process—Controlled Roasting—that roasts every coffee berry evenly. With automatic control of heat and speed of operation, a few pounds at a time pass through the roasters.
Uniformity of roast and unequal flavor is the result.

Hills Bros. Coffee is always fresh when you buy it because it is packed in vacuum. This process takes air, which destroys the flavor of coffee,
from the can and keeps it out.
Coffee will not stay fresh in ordinary cans, even if air-tight. Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros.
Coffee. Ask for it by name and look

HOUSER SPEAKS TO CONGREGATION ON STEWARDSHIP

The Rev. Emerson O. Houser, director of stewardship for the Presbyterian denomination, spoke on Stewardship at a congregational meeting of Memorial Presbyterian church Thursday evening.

He dispelled the misapprehension that stewardship is a money-making proposition, explaining that it is really an attempt made by the church to educate its people in the stewardship of their money. He stressed the importance of a budget, illustrating with the statistics that of 1,000 divorce cases investigated, financial entanglements were to blame for 50 per cent. He gave examples of present day business men who recognize their obligations to their employees, and who use their profits to support churches and public institutions of education and charity.

Prior to the address a supper was served by the Crusaders circle of the Ladies Aid, under the leadership of Mrs. Frank Schneider.

Make Child Be Prompt At School

Children who attend school from kindergarten through college ought to attend regularly and punctually. That is the highest importance both to the character of the child and to the character of his work.

Going to school is the child's business in life. We hope that by exposing him to the influences of a good school daily for a term of years that we can guide him to one or two working principles that will aid him for the remainder of his life. We hope to teach him to work. We hope to teach him to carry responsibility. We hope to have him train his mind to question, investigate and make right decisions.

Any one of these expectations is a lifetime task in the fulfilling. Growth is a slow process. A child gains very gradually from day to day, for most of our instruction is foreign to his experience and accordingly difficult for him to accept and bend to his use. We are dependent for success on the day-by-day impression and expression. If that is skipped there is a break in the child's growth and a break is difficult to knit.

Absence makes a child lose interest in his work. He has lost the "place." His companions are ahead of him. Making up back work is a lonely process and dreary indeed. The push of the group, the freshness of the teacher's expression are gone. Makeup work is never done with the same spirit nor the same success as is the daily work that goes on unintermitted.

Almost as bad as absence, though not quite, is lateness. Starting late spoils the day. One cannot rush breathlessly into class and have the same feeling of receptive interest he knows when he reaches the room in good time and in leisurely conversation with his mates. The body is excited, the nervous system strained, the attitude spoiled.

Children are rarely to blame for absence and lateness. They attend school regularly and punctually if they are sent that way. When mother is over-anxious about the health of a child and says, "It looks like you sneezing. I'm afraid you may be coming down with a cold." "You didn't sleep very well last night. You'd better take a nap this morning. Never mind school, that child will soon fall behind, lose interest and be a school failure."

Not that I would have a sick child go to school. Only that I would talk health, regularity, punctuality, and do my best to achieve all three in the children. There should be no absence save in case of illness, emergency, or some unusual circumstance. Habitual good attendance and punctuality is what is needed. Some people exaggerate them. I know. They make lateness a crime and absence a tragedy. Be sane about it but keep the child attending regularly and punctually.

BUILDS UP THE BLOOD

La Crosse, Wis.—"My mother always kept Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in her medicine chest and gave it to members of the family as a blood and stomach medicine. I have always taken it as such, especially in spring time. I think it the best medicine any one can take as a spring tonic and to build up and enrich the blood. It also regulates the liver and is good for weak stomach—it renovates the entire system."—Clas. Van Sickle, 821 La Crosse. All druggists.

C. E. Work Is Outlined By Official

Christian Endeavor and Its Work was discussed by Clifford Earle, field secretary of the society, at the Christian Endeavor rally sponsored by the Star League Thursday night at Emanuel Evangelical church. He told of a visit last summer to Portland, Me., the birthplace of Christian Endeavor, and of his visit with Mrs. Francis E. Clark, who aided her husband, Dr. Clark, in the founding of the society. Mr. Earle visited the church where the organization meeting was held.

He spoke on various means of improving meetings and methods of stimulating greater activity of the group as a whole. About 35 persons attended the banquet and the meeting which took place before the evening service.

Several representatives of the societies of Kaukauna, Kimberly, Neenah, and Green Bay were present. The committee in charge included Miss Florence Schmidt and Clifford Selig.

First English Lutheran congregation will observe the fourteenth anniversary of the dedication of the church with a special service at 10:30 Sunday morning. The Rev. C. Reuter, pastor, will preach the sermon on the subject, "Determined to Know and Preach the One and the Cross."

This will probably be the last dedicatory anniversary service to be held in the present church building, as the congregation plans to erect a new church this year. This last dedicatory service will be marked with a special offering for the new church fund. The public is invited to attend.

Mrs. A. Werner reported on plans for the luncheon at the meeting of the Ladies Aid society of St. Matthew church Thursday afternoon at the church. No date has been set for the event. It was decided not to hold a cake sale this month. A social hour followed the business session.

A group of members of which Mrs. Paul Stegert is captain will entertain the society and their friends at a party next Tuesday afternoon in the church parlors. Music and a lunch will be served. Each member is expected to bring at least four friends.

A play "Eyes of Love" will be given soon by the sodality of the Blessed Virgin of St. Therese church, according to a decision reached at the meeting Thursday night at the parish hall. Cards and dice were played and prizes were won by Miss Jane Brunke and Miss Margaret Voss. Refreshments were served to about 35 members. Miss Cecile Bliks was in charge.

Over 500 persons were served at the supper given by the Brotherhood of Zion Lutheran church Thursday night at the church. The committee in charge included Otto Reetz, August Buchholz, Ed Brinkman, Emil Kahler, William Mueller, Ed Buchert and Otto Tank.

Plans for a social meeting in two weeks were made at the meeting of the Brotherhood of Trinity English Lutheran church Wednesday night in the sub auditorium of the church. Herman Kotlike and the Rev. D. E. Bosserman were appointed to make the arrangements. Fifteen members were present. The Rev. Bosserman gave the topic on Evangelism.

The King's Herald and the Little Light Bearers will hold a joint Valentine party Saturday afternoon at First Methodist church. A mission lesson at 2 o'clock will precede the party.

The Story of Sue

MARGERY HALE
© 1929 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

At the sight of Sue's emerald, shining in the palm of the girl who was named Maybelline Smith, Corinne forgot that she had been sobbing.

Here was the stone that she had been seeking! The end of the quest! But she must play her cards skillfully now, she knew.

"I knew it would knock you over," Mabel talked on. "I was almost prostrated myself. I wouldn't have shown it to you but I wanted somebody to tell me what a rock it is." She slipped it on her finger and let the green light break into shattered brilliance.

"It's gorgeous," Corinne agreed. "It's... beautiful. You know, it's the one thing in life I want most!" Mabel didn't know how truthfully she was speaking, she reflected. "But how did you ever get it? Mon don't just... just give such things away, do they, if you aren't engaged or something?" She made her voice very innocent, very inquiring. "This one did!" Mabel slipped the jewel back into her pocketbook.

"But why?" "Because he couldn't get the money he promised me. Where he got the blazer only the jewelry clerk knows. I don't. Maybe he was going to give it some girl from home he was engaged to marry. But she'll have to be satisfied with something less now."

Later in the afternoon, when there was a lull in the store, and a gray rain was splashing against the windows which ran in panels near the ceiling, Mabel grew confidential again.

"Don't mention that emerald to anyone. Cliff didn't want me to." Cliff! Then there wasn't any more doubt about it. Clifford Becker had presented the ring as a gift. This was the girl whom he had to pay in order to silence. Unable to get money, and afraid to pawn the emerald now for fear of being caught, he had given it to the girl.

"He may plan to get it back later in exchange for the money he's promised her," Corinne reasoned. "But where did he meet her?"

"Where do you meet people who give you things like that?" Corinne asked. "I never have any luck." She hoped her voice sounded genuine.

"I'll get this fellow to get another man for you some time," Mabel offered generously. "You see, he's in college, but I used to work in a confectionery in the town. We got to be good friends. And then when he tried to ditch me, I was going to sue him for breach of promise right out in the court, and he didn't like it. I went to see him while I was away from the store. So... here's the emerald!"

"It's gorgeous," Corinne said again. "But aren't you afraid to carry it around with you?"

"Where would I put it? Sure. I know it's risky having it in my pocketbook, but if I leave it in my room somebody's apt to cop the thing. And I like to look at it."

"It's too expensive to have around loose. I bet it's worth a lot." Again Corinne tried a wondering tone.

"I'll tell the sophomores it is! I had it valued. No money stones for mine. But what should I do about hiding it?"

Corinne tried to make her voice casual as she answered. If the girl would only fall in with her suggestion she could put her scheme across!

BY ANNEBELLE WORTHINGTON
The jacket dress again proves itself an indispensable in Spring daytime wardrobe.

This one is charming in a "guardsman" blue and white thin woolen plaid. And incidentally plaids are tremendously chic. The upper part of the bodice, jacket facing, and trim are in plain woolen in matching blue shade.

The plaited skirt with its curved outline that starts at either side of the front panel, gives that flat stimpness over the hips so modish.

Style No. 2968 may be had in sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

BE CAREFUL IN CHOOSING YOUR POWDER, ROUGE

BY ALICIA HART

Every little girl should have at least two compacts. Three make it nicer, because she can change her daytime compact with her purse. But she owes it to herself to have two, for when she gets all dressed up in party clothes, it is quite as if she had to carry the plain daytime compact as to wear daytime shoes.

Compacts differ greatly these days. You can just about suit your taste in them. They all have the same ability to slip into a purse in small space—that is implied in their name—and they all give you the fundamentals of a make-up, rouge and powder.

If you choose your compact for its shape, size and color, do be sure that it has loose powder and a place to put your own favorite rouge in it for both lipstick and rouge. Otherwise you may find yourself with atrocious cake powder, which is always harsher than loose powder, and cake rouge which is far from the color you need.

Selecting a compact with cake powder and rouge, match your shade the best you can. Personally, I prefer to use my own powder in a loose powder compact, but that is a personal preference and some of my best friends would not be without their cake-powder in their compacts. Its advantage is that it doesn't spill. But you should be careful of the loose powder kind and they won't spill either.

Many girls prefer to use no eye shadow and no eyebrow pencil in the daytime. It is a preference I admire. Certainly the girl who goes in for heavy mascara in the daytime lacks a finesse that these girls inherently possess.

If you like a compact with just rouge and powder, and carry your own lipstick besides, the world is yours. There are probably 100 different varieties. I merely ask you, in selecting your brand, to try to get one whose cake powder seems as fine as possible. At best this is mixed with talcum and is a bit gritty. Pick it as fine as you can and it will reward you.

In selecting separate lipstick and a compact with powder and rouge, get the lipstick to exactly match the rouge, or vice versa. You may or may not know that many well-groomed women use the rouge from compacts to color their lips and lighten the weight of their purse by their lipstick.

WE WOMEN

By Virginia Vance

Dear Virginia Vance: I am in the strange position of being in love with a man who is sincere in his love for me, and who wants to marry me, but whom I cannot trust. I am really afraid to marry him. I have known him for seven years. In that time he has often cheated, always confessing afterward that he has done so. He has never lied to me. Sometimes he has gone away from me for months and never written a line, but then he has warned me before going that he would not write. Of course my parents object to him and to the things he has done in these seven years. He is often out of work which is one of my parents' objections to him. Not long ago he came back after one of his long absences and asked me to marry him at once. He was out of work at the time and would have little to marry on. I was not prepared to marry so quickly and told him so. He said I was simply making excuses, and is now in a rage. I practically agreed then that when he got work again, I would marry him. Should I do so? I hate to go against my parents' wishes. WORRIED.

You're extremely wise in hating to go against your parents' wishes. After all they've been keeping an eye on this affair for seven years, and since they want your happiness above everything else they would certainly have taken pains to find virtue in the boy by this time—if there were any at all to be found. They've obviously come to the conclusion that as a husband he won't do at all, and you're wise girl to listen to them.

He sounds like a fairly selfish young specimen. You see, you've been concentrating on the fact, probably that he loves you best of all because he never shows attention to any other girls permanently, and because after all he wants to marry you and cares for you enough to return to you time after time.

But you haven't paid much attention to the fact that he loves himself better than you and that nothing will ever come before his affection for himself. He may occasionally have bursts of generosity—he may want to make you happy so long as it doesn't inconvenience himself—but he can't love you truly and treat you with such lack of consideration.

No man who wasn't pretty much wrapped up in himself could dream of asking a girl to marry him, unless he had at least a job to help him support her. No man could so casually breeze in and out of a girl's life for seven years without feeling conscience-stricken at taking so much of her youth and her love—unless he were a confirmed egoist.

You have no assurance that he will show the slightest consideration for you after marriage—that he will do any more than try to make himself happy and offer you occasional crumbs of affection to keep you happy. He has obviously never for a minute considered your side of the question and it would be folly to marry a man who thought only of his side of the marriage.

So take your parents' advice, and drop him before he's made a complete mess of your life. And don't worry about breaking his heart. The kind of love he bears for you or toward any other girl, would never mean more to him than his deeper feeling for himself.

REGGIE: If you have found your kind of happiness, why bother about what the rest of the world thinks about it. You can live peacefully under the present circumstances, and you're quite right to take what joy comes your way and make the most of it.

You are hurting no one—you need not offend anyone's prejudices. You have chosen a rather strange occupation and you're bound to come in for a good deal of criticism from a conventional world but this need not disturb your peace of mind for an instant. So long as you're not doing wrong, you can afford to laugh at others' prejudices and opinions. In a few months people will find you a dull subject of conversation, and in

FARMERS TAKE INITIAL MOVE FOR MILK CO-OP

Producers Around Neenah Hear Plans Outlined for Organization

BY W. F. WINSEY

Neenah—Seventy-five farmers made the first move to organize the production of a local branch of the Pure Milk Producers' Cooperative in Appleton-Neenah-Menasha-Kaukauna milk producing area at a meeting in the city hall Thursday afternoon. The purpose of the local branch, according to the farmers, is the checking of weights and tests in the milk plants in the area and about valley cities and eventually to take a hand in fixing the price on their milk. The farmers appeared vigorously in favor of getting a fair part of each dollar that the consumer is now paying for milk and cream. County Agent O. P. Cuff promised the farmers that if they were fully decided to market their milk cooperatively, he would assist them in every way possible.

Other speakers at the meeting were R. P. Ames, vice president of the state Pure Milk Producers' Cooperative and fieldman of that organization, and G. A. Sell, county agent. "If you decide to join this milk marketing organization on a contract basis, I shall help you 100 per cent," Mr. Cuff said. "Cooperative marketing is the only solution of the agricultural problem."

"The farmers of Outagamie county some time ago got the notion of marketing their milk cooperatively," Mr. Sell said. "They have organized branches of the Pure Milk Producers' Cooperative at New London, Nichols, Bear Creek, and across the county line in Clintonville. In New London, the patrons of the plant feel more than ready to pay for the work and cost of organizing. They are looking forward to the time when patrons of all the condensaries of Wisconsin will be organized."

Helps Farmers Claim "Nobody knows how much milk can be accomplished for the good of farmers when the patrons of all the condensaries and milk plants in Wisconsin are organized."

"After the patrons of the milk plant at Nichols had asked for help in organizing themselves in a marketing group, New London took up the work, followed by Bear Creek and Clintonville."

"These activities of those groups in the north and west parts of the county stirred up the farmers in the Appleton milk producing area."

"At a meeting held by the Appleton group in the court room in December, a committee of farmers consisting of one or more representatives of the patrons of each milk plant in the Appleton area was appointed to make a further study of the marketing project and to report at a mass meeting to follow."

"The committee reported at a meeting held in the Wilson Junior high school to a mass meeting of 600 dairymen. The committee advised the dairymen to go on to a finish with the organization work."

Mr. Sell read the report of the committee at the Neenah meeting. "This is the background of the series of dairy organization meetings being held this week," said Mr. Sell.

"In my travels I have found lots of fine farm houses with good buildings that have been vacated and locked up," said Mr. Ames. "If this vacating of farms continues the civilization of the United States as we know it cannot long survive. Farmers are losing their farms as a result of the marketing system they are pursuing. By placing their goods on the road side and letting the customers pick up the good and set the price on the goods as you are doing with your milk, the merchants of Neenah would not have to go through your method of marketing your farmers lost one-third of your regular income last year."

Points to Price Boost "If we were not organized down in the south part of Wisconsin we would now be getting $1.30, per hundred pounds for 3.5 per cent milk as you farmers are now getting on account of collective marketing we are getting $2.38 per hundred pounds for our milk that goes into bottles."

"The question is, how are you going to pay your taxes, interest on mortgages, and your taxes with the money you are getting for your milk under your present system of marketing?"

"Everybody in Neenah should be interested in your financial success. Even with all your paper mills if it were not for the farmers about your city, no man would be doing business and labor would have no employment."

"If you are looking forward to a time when the farmers about Neenah will have their own milk plant in the city from which they will deliver milk to the consumers and cut the cost of delivery down to one-third of the present cost. Perhaps the time is not ripe to carry out that suggestion."

"A 10 per cent raise in the farmers' price of milk would pay the taxes on all the farms of Winnebago county."

Mr. Ames urged the farmers to help form a unit of the Pure Milk Producers' Cooperative and through that unit to take a hand in marketing their milk.

CHILDREN WARNED NOT TO ACCEPT AUTO RIDES

Neenah—Parents are warning their children to avoid accepting rides in autos with strangers. What was thought to have been an attempt to kidnap the small son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Weinko early this week was reported to police. When the son failed to return from school as usual, his mother, who started looking for him found him in an auto with a stranger. When questioned, the stranger stammered an excuse and drove away.

Possibly the man is the same one who stopped several of the smaller Boy Scout Troops as they were on their way to their homes from the weekly meeting at St. Thomas parish hall. He asked them if they wanted a ride. This man was unknown to the Scouts.

A large crowd watched the St. Mary cagers in their sixth conference battle. A team of Menasha high school alumni swamped the Appleton Vagabonds, 3 to 9, in a preliminary attraction. Vetter and Godhardt starred for Menasha.

In the first quarter of the parochial school contest, a basket tossed by Resch, accounted for the only St. Mary markers. St. John's scored two field goals and a free throw to bring the count to 5 and 2 at the close of the period.

Although Green and Mackin were sent in for St. Mary's at the opening of the second period, the Little Chute aggregation continued to hold the advantage, scoring 6 points during the quarter. Green, Coopman and Mackin scored on free throws for Menasha.

The Menasha five rallied after the opening of the second half and held the visitors to a single point during the third quarter. St. Mary offensive play was weak, however, and a field goal by Green accounted for the only Menasha counter during the remainder of the game. # Carroll And Lawrence Quintets At Alexander Gym Saturday Night

PIONEERS ARE UNDEFEATED IN BIG FOUR RACE

Hinckley and Vander Muhlen, Loop's Scoring Aces, With Invaders

THREE basketball games annually are outstanding on the Lawrence College home schedule: Lawrence versus Ripon, Lawrence versus Marquette; and Lawrence versus Carroll.

Two of them already have been played this season and the third and last is slated to Saturday night at Alexander gymnasium. Only one game is on the evening's program and it will begin at 8:15.

Early last month Lawrence and the Pioneers met on the Kaukausha floor. The Vikings took a 25-25, a score of something like 25 to 25, the game being the first after the annual Christmas holiday layoff. Since then both teams have gone through their schedules, Carroll with only one defeat, Lawrence with two, but both now are considered first rate quintets.

Vikes Have Offense

Their ratings since the first game indicate that when they met together Saturday night one of the most interesting battles staged this year will be on tap. Offensively the Vikings have been developed into a powerful quintet by Coach A. C. Denney and defensively there never was any doubt about their strength with men like Fieschl, Pierce, Vander Bloemen and Gochnauer on hand to keep the enemy away.

SEATS AND BUSES

Reserved seats for the Carroll game now are on sale at Roach's Sport Shop. Buses will leave College-ave and Oneida-st every 15 minutes beginning at 7 o'clock.

The offensive strength was improved last week when Coach Denney replaced Hall, forward, with Henne, a sophomore, and the latter proved himself showing very well on the Illinois trip. He probably will get the nod Saturday night.

Captain Hayward Biggers will hold down the other forward position and if he continues play shown in recent games will give Carroll plenty to worry about. Fels, a long, lanky chap is still another forward and will be called upon if height is a prime requisite in the front line.

At center Ken Laif will perform and has his work cut out for him in stopping Vander Muhlen, one of Carroll's scoring aces. Laird has been playing very good ball this winter, holding his own with every center in the Big-Four and Midwest leagues and with White Badrunas, the Marquette ace. Bennie Rafath is the reserve center.

Have Two Good Shots

Carroll's greatest strength lies in the basket shooting ability of "Bull" Hinckley and "Stretch" Vander Muhlen. Hinckley, a short, stocky chap performed here last fall with the Pioneer football team and is one of the greatest shots ever to enroll in a Big Four school. With Vander Muhlen to pop in the follow ups and a couple of his pet tosses from the free throw mark, the two form a great scoring combination.

There are other men on the Carroll squad, O'terry, Goerke, Clarkson and three or four others who also can make things interesting for the Vikes, but attention must be centered on the "Bull" and "Stretch" for they can run wild with only a few assists from their mates.

A handful of Lawrence fans saw the two teams play their second game last winter at Kaukausha and they recall that battle. Lawrence, betwixt badly in the first game, played the Pioneers to a standstill and led most of the way. Near the end of the game Carroll pulled in front and led by one point when the gun sounded while the ball was in the air and on its way to the hoop, propelled by the strong arms of Paul Fieschl, the guard. Had it gone through the hoop Lawrence would have won by a point.

STATE SKI JUMPERS SHOW AT SCANDINAVIA

Stevens Point—(P)—More than 60 skiers representing Chicago, Racine, Milwaukee, Wausau, Ogdén, Dela, and other midwest western ski clubs will participate in a tournament to be held near here Sunday by the Central Wisconsin Ski club.

It is called one of the finest natural ski jumping hills in the state and is situated in a wooded section with large natural amphitheatre in which spectators may stand.

The hill is a mile south of Perru, on County Trunk Z, which leaves State Highway 49 two miles south of Northland.

KING LEVINSKY GETS MATCH WITH GRIFFITHS

Chicago—(P)—Negotiations were under way today, to match Gerald Ambrose Griffiths, the Sioux City, Ia., tough one, with King Levinsky for a 10 round engagement in the Chicago Stadium March 6.

It was reported that Levinsky intends to make $20,000 out of the receipts out of which they would undertake to guarantee Griffiths $25,000.

The match became attractive after the Kingfisch knocked out Jack Gagnon in Boston in three rounds. Gagnon scored a technical knockout over Griffiths last winter, but the tough one later came back to gain a decision victory.

THE Bulldogs of the C. of F. league won three straight games last night from the Shepards, away down in last place, and maintained their position as league leaders despite three wins for the Setters.

Dohr won the honors for the Bulldogs by slapping down 555 pieces of maple in games of 209, 163, 183. Three of his mates were not far behind and boasted 500 series. In the first game 919 pins were toppled, the scores being 178, 176, 174, 177, 209, all of which were high single games.

For the lowly Shepards, Thiel's 158, 138, 161—437 was the best series. The Setters, battling against a 203 handicap also topped wood to win their three games. Otto rolled the most consistent games, 191, 191, 192 and picked a 574 series. For the losers Griesbach's 178, 180, 167—525 was by far the highest score.

Another whitewashing was handed the Pointers in their games with the Spaniels. J. Quella led the time-honored activities of the winners with games of 149, 203, 180 for 532. Zapp, a teammate of Quella had a 511 series. For the Pointers, Hamm hit 163, 179, 168 for a 510 total.

The only real battle of the evening was between the Terriers and the Spitz teams, the latter winning a two to one decision. A 201 by Schwab enabled the Spitz quint to cop the first game 867 to 844, 774 to 24 handicap also helping. In the second game the Spitz won 842 to 775 and in the third the Terriers stepped out and busted 834 pins compared to 820 for the Spitz. For Chicago—(P)—The funeral of Charles Dryden, sports humorist who died at Ocean Springs, Miss., Wednesday night, will be held at Monmouth, Ill., Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Louis Dryden Davenport, his sister, will accompany the body to Chicago tomorrow.

Y. M. C. A. SWIMMING TEAM AT GREEN BAY

Appleton Y. M. C. A. swimming team, the Aquatic club, will meet the Green Bay Club team of Green Bay Saturday evening at the Bay. In a meet held here several weeks ago Appleton lost 30 to 28 despite the fact it won five first places compared to four for the C. C. team. Failure to annex enough seconds in events in which it did not win first beat the Appleton squad.

Big Ten Raising Its Athletics Standards

BY FRANCIS J. POWERS Copyright 1931

CHICAGO—(P)—Occasional innuendoes that the Western conference may be ripped by another explosion similar to the one that blew Iowa University out of the Big Ten a year, get nothing but a laugh from Major John L. Griffith, who polices the athletic morals of the group. Major Griffith, like the athletic directors of the Big Ten, is satisfied the conference is conducting its sports in an honest, sensible manner and in no need of any reforms, whatever.

Clearly all of the individual members of the conference are of their own initiative, strengthening scholarship standards and requirements. Such moves are not directed at athletes but if the young sportsmen are caught by them it is just too bad.

Wisconsin has just put into effect new curricular requirements for advancement from the sophomore to junior class in the colleges of letters and science that will necessitate students spending more time over textual matters. The new rules provide that only those students who, at the end of their second college year, have an average of 1.3 grade points per credit will automatically advance to the junior class.

Students having from 1.1 to 1.3 grade points per credit can apply for admission to the third year but their cases will be passed upon by a faculty committee, which will not be any too lenient.

Coaches Don't Worry

However, this action does not seem to worry coaches of Wisconsin's athletic teams. A survey made a few years ago showed that the athletes earned a slightly higher academic rating than the non-athletes. So the coaches are of the opinion their men can continue to shine in the class room.

The honor point system is in effect in many of the other conference schools and on the whole Big Ten athletes must be better than average students or they do not continue to be varsity representatives for any length of time.

Major Griffith does not believe there will be any immediate curtailment of football schedules in the conference. Big Ten events now are limited to eight games and must close the Saturday before Thanksgiving. Many years ago the conference tried the plan of abbreviated football schedules without success and now everyone seems satisfied that eight games constitutes a well balanced and unemphasized season.

Spring football practice also will continue in the Big Ten and already some few coaches are preparing to call on their candidates. However, spring drills may be made voluntary on the part of the candidates, so as not to interfere with other sports. Indiana will not have any heavy spring practice this year, due to the fact that J. C. Haves, the newly appointed coach, also is director of the track team.

The reported mortality rate among conference football men in the mid-year examinations has been very light and if the young men can now slip through the June tests the Big Ten should have a raft of outstanding stars next fall. Nearly every conference coach will have some promising sophomore material and the 1931 race may be one of the best in several years.

Game at Armory G Probably Will Decide Valley Conference Title

FRIDAY'S GAMES

Oshkosh at Appleton.
Sheboygan at East.
Fond du Lac at Marinette.
Manitowoc at West.

Appleton and Oshkosh high school basketball teams who hold the center of attention at Armory G tonight also hold the center of attention as far as the week's valley conference games are concerned.

Both teams have been defeated in one game this season and the loser tonight probably will be relegated to the scrap heap unless there is a stunning upset at a later date. Oshkosh holds the top rung on the ladder by virtue of one more game played than Appleton.

Indications are the Armory will be packed tonight by representatives of both schools. Persons planning on seeing the game should come as soon as possible if choice seats are to be obtained. The evening's program opens with a game between Oshkosh and Appleton second teams at 7 o'clock.

Other valley conference games will find Sheboygan and East Green Bay battling, Fond du Lac taking the log hop to Marinette and West Green Bay meeting the Manitowoc Shipbuilders. The Chair-East game is a tossup but Fondy is favored to beat Marinette and West favored to down Manitowoc.

Eight Uniforms for Hack Wilson

Chicago—(P)—Poor Hack Wilson! The major league home run champion recently signed a fat contract with the Cubs and now the club has retaliated by limiting him to eight uniforms for the 1931 season.

Wilson has a propensity for getting his suits dirty in a hurry, so the management decided to buy him four uniforms for home use and four for the road.

The rest of the Cubs also will be pretty well outfitted. Each will have two home uniforms and two for the road and all four sets will be of different pattern.

Wilson has a propensity for getting his suits dirty in a hurry, so the management decided to buy him four uniforms for home use and four for the road.

Unintelligent thinking and too much generalization from insufficient data give rise to conclusions about football by those who do not take the time to fairly analyze conditions," he said. "All can not agree on the benefits of athletics just as all can not agree on the purpose of education."

NEW FOURTH PLACE TEAM AT PIN MEET

Milwaukee—(P)—The last shift last night saw the Flasher Bucks of Milwaukee drive home a total of 2,984 for fifth place in team events at the Wisconsin State Bowling tournament to register the only change in standings.

They edged into the leaders on games of 933, 1,055 and 940. The doubles high score of the day was 1,208 rolled by W. Polaski. J. Mazurkiewicz, Milwaukee, and Tony Jez, Milwaukee, led the singles for the day with 644.

WOMEN BOWLERS MEET TONIGHT AT ARCADE

Officers for the coming year will be elected by the Women's City Bowling association at a meeting at 8 o'clock tonight at the Arcade alleys. The women keepers also will decide where the annual women's city pin meet will be held.

Present officers of the association are Ellen Dunn, president; Sylvia Roudsbush, vice president; Irene Radtke, treasurer and Marie Glasnap, secretary.

ORANGE PUCK TEAM BEATS NEW LONDON

Appleton high school hockey team annexed another victory Wednesday night when it defeated the New London sextet 4 and 0 on the Jones park rink. Play in the first period was even and scoreless. Then Pope hit the net for the Orange and in the third and last period he scored two more times and O'Dell once. Carleton Tracy again played goal and turned in a great exhibition.

NAME HONOR FIVES IN OLDER BOY LOOP

Wolverines Place Two Boys, Sophs, Triangles, Delts and Specials One

With completion of the regular schedule for the Older Boy Basketball league of the Y. M. C. A. and the crowning of the Sam Ornsteln Specials as champions, a first and second all-conference team have been picked together with a lightweight team, by Sid Shannon and Walter McCanna, score keeper and time keeper who saw all the season's games.

Only one member of the champion Specials is placed on the first team, A. Ebert, guard. However, the S. O. S. manager, none other than Sammy Ornsteln himself is named all-conference manager.

The lightweight team is composed of the smaller boys in the league. Two Midgets are on the team, while the Ghosts, Triangles and Bears each place one player.

Editor's note: Reports Friday morning were that Messrs. Shannon and McCanna had left for parts unknown with announcement that their selections would be made public today.

ROSS ROBINSON STILL LEADS SPEED SKATERS

Lake Placid, N. Y.—(P)—Concluding events in the North American Amateur Speed Skating championships today found Ross Robinson of Toronto still holding a 20-point lead over his nearest rival, Ray Murray of New York.

Robinson captured the three-quarter mile event and finished third in the 40 yards race, to bring his total points to 40. Murray finished second in each of these races to boost his point total to 39. Third place was held by Allan Potts of Brooklyn, with 40 points. Potts won the 440-yard title in 35.230 seconds and placed third in the three-quarters.

Back of these leaders trailed O'Neil Farrell of Chicago with 30 points and Irving Jaffee, New York, and Frank Stack, Chicago, with 20 each.

Milwaukee—(P)—The bleacher critics who sit in the stands and look at things through smoke colored glasses are responsible for more harm to college athletics than the so-called over-emphasis of the sports, Maj. John L. Griffith, Big Ten official, said in a speech at Milwaukee State Teachers college yesterday.

Three First Basemen

Three of the outstanding holdouts of the pre-spring training season are first basemen. They are Lou Gehrig, Bill Terry and Eddie Morgan.

Gehrig, after a great year, thinks he is worth more than $25,000. Bill Terry, after one of the greatest seasons any first baseman had, thinks he ought to be worth at least $25,000. Eddie Morgan, whose pay ideas scale considerably lower than that figure, thinks the raise in pay offered to him by the Indian management is not enough to lure him away from the thriving business of making boxes at Kenner, La.

"Other Interests"

Terry, who is interested in the oil business in Memphis and has the income from several buildings which he rents, is a hard young man to argue with. He has his own ideas about things and sticks to them. Photographers in Memphis recently tried to get Bill to pose with his family for pictures to illustrate a little story about his church activities during the winter months. Bill said he would pose himself, but he didn't want the family in the papers. And he stuck to his guns.

Morgan definitely announced he was through with baseball and merely added parenthetically in his letter to the club owners that baseball wasn't worth while if it wasn't worth more than he had been offered after his good work in 1930. Box-making was a very attractive business, anyway, and he wasn't so crazy about baseball, after all.

Others Docile

The rest of the first basemen however, aren't so interested in activities other than baseball. Jimmy Fox signed up early to get into shape for some more world series homers. Phil Todd, brought in the A's camp from the Red Sox, isn't holding out so much as trying to hold on.

Lu Blue is ready to suffer another season with the Browns without any quarrel about money. Joe Judge is too old and Joe Kuhel too young to be bothered with any questions other than first-basing for the Senators.

Dale Alexander's batting average fell off a few points and he isn't pressing Owner Frank Navin of the Tigers for a raise. One unnamed hero is going to play first base for the White Sox this year and nobody knows what his ideas on pay

Matchmaker Should Get Credit For Legion's All-Star Fight Program

Ran Chance of One Sided Card and Gave Fans Season's Best Bill

BY GORDON R. MCINTYRE

NOTHER fight card under the auspices of Oney Johnson post of the American Legion has come and gone. Six fighters had their arms raised as tokens of victory last night but no one raised the arm of the one man who should have been honored—the legion's matchmaker, H. W. Miller.

Last night's card showed six Chicago fighters and six fighters from the Fox river valley and there never was a better card staged at the armory from the point of even bouts and plenty of action.

So after almost two years of promoting the amateurs with a lot of grief and maybe a little thanks, we take this method of giving Miller a little credit for the work he has done, work which we think was climaxed last evening when there was the greatest possibility of having everything go to Chicago—or to the valley boxers.

A large crowd saw last night's card and they saw some nice bouts. No straight knockouts were recorded but there was action, occasion to cheer, to jeer and to give credit for sportsmanship. Taken together it was an enjoyable show.

The Chicago team was brought here by Jabber Young, one time Menasha professional fighter and although he returned to the Windy City with only one decision, the local talent didn't run away with the show and perhaps he should have had the nod in two fights.

Chicago Boys Handicapped

The Windy City boys fought here under somewhat of a handicap but they didn't squawk a bit, played the game fair and should be accorded a lot of credit. What we mean is they fought only two minute rounds in Chicago and are permitted to hit on the break. In Wisconsin three minute rounds are in vogue and breaks must be clean. No little handicap when one gives it sound consideration.

The windup featured Hans Ahl of Oshkosh and a rugged, battle scarred veteran by the name of Jack Arakleian. Hans won the decision after three rounds and probably had it coming but he didn't win so many friends by his antics. Hans has taken to clowning and the folks are not so keen for such stuff.

During the first round Ahl bossed his man and had a slight advantage when he chose to take a few pokes as the Chicagoan. In the second round he indicated he felt he could easily handle Arakleian and began clowning while Arakleian countered with a couple of faxes. When the boys took to fighting Ahl rocked the Chicago youth with blows about the head.

The third and last round found the Oshkosh youth pretty much master of the situation but most fans felt he could give a better account of himself.

All Set to Play Ball

Over in the National league, aside from Harry, the first to play, are docile people. Jim Bottomley isn't interested in making boxes, like Morgan, but wants to get a few more hits after his name in the box scores. Gus Suhr is not only ready but willing to play another season for the Pirates. Don Hurst is playing first for the Phils, if you care to know it. Neun is back on the job for the Braves and Del Eblson isn't cleaning his shotgun to go after Prexy York of Brooklyn for more cash. Charley Grimm is going to play for Hornsby without a battle over the pay check. That's about all of them except Cincinnati, which is trying out a young man from the coast named Mickey Heath. Apparently Heath is ready to play—even for Cincinnati.

Sackett Gets Nod

Sackett started the round fast and kept in close to the Chicagoan getting a slight edge. However, Groshek opened with some choice wallops during the last minute of the bout and was making things hard count of himself than he did. He opened the round fast, cuffing Arakleian plenty and then took to entertaining until the bell.

Thompson Wins

Herbie Thompson was the winner in the only knockout of the evening, the K. O. being a technical one when Clarence Miller, his opponent said he could not continue because of a broken hand. Herbie seemed to have a big advantage in the third frame and the draw decision didn't register well.

When the first gong sounded Thompson found himself opposite an older man who weighed three pounds more than he did. Herbie immediately became the aggressor and although he kept pecking away at his bludge opponent he ran into a couple rights that didn't do much good.

In the second round Thompson bounded forward from the corner and after Miller, finding in the third round, Thompson's pile driver rights to the stomach and a couple of hard lefts on the ribs did plenty of damage and it was a tired and badly battered Miller who went to his corner at the end of the frame.

The fight then was called a draw but Miller gave Thompson the decision when he said he could not continue. Miller's face was beet-red when the fight ended and he probably would not have lasted the fourth round.

Taurig Steals Show

Little Zep Taurig, Manitowoc, and Tony Pernice, Chicago, nearly stole the show in their fight. They traded leather with reckless abandon in the first and third rounds, Taurig getting the nod by virtue of advantages in each of the three frames.

The fight started slow but in less than a minute the two youngsters were in one corner, falling away at each other for a far more well. Sensing a real bout the fans gave them a big hand to be repeated at the end of the fight. Zep forced the fight throughout and hit Pernice with everything but the timer's hammer and the Chicagoan came back for more. Pernice was tired when the fight ended, and so was Taurig for all that matter, but they had done well fighting like a couple of bantam roosters from song to song.

Claude Sackett, New London, made his first appearance here last night in many a moon and showed himself a much improved fighter who won over a man who weighed more and had a longer reach. The fight went four rounds before a decision was handed down, Sackett winning because his opponent, Bob Groshek, failed to stand the pace.

The first frame was about even with Groshek using his long reach to advantage as he laid Sackett at arm's length and punished him with a right. Sackett was evening matters by some clever in fighting. In the second round Sackett failed to keep in close as in the first and he took a merry cuffing from his opponent. The Chicagoan was hammering away at the New London boy's face and mixing things up with an occasional stiff poke to the midsection, one blow being right on the border line of a foul and apparently hurting Sackett.

The third round saw Groshek tiring and Sackett the aggressor. However, he had little chance to do much because the Chicagoan was continually holding. Whatever fighting there was went to Sackett and the judges and referee ordered a fourth round.

Sackett started the round fast and kept in close to the Chicagoan getting a slight edge. However, Groshek opened with some choice wallops during the last minute of the bout and was making things hard

STRATEGY USED IN OPPOSITION TO BONUS PLAN

Administration Trying to Shape Public Opinion Against Larger Expense

Copyright 1931 By Post Pub. Co.
Washington. —(CPA)—The administration has sought to develop an aggressive public opinion against increased expense on soldiers' bonus certificates. The speaker in New York by Owen Mills, undersecretary of the treasury, telling the Bond club to be prepared for unfavorable news, is typical of the strategy being employed to wake up the business men of the country to the dangers that face them in congress.

For the last week or so the impression has been sent out by newspaper correspondents that there was no likelihood of an expenditure beyond $500,000,000 as increased loans on the veterans' certificates. But the administration has not been so sure about it and has refused to allow its opposition to subside.

Actually the sentiment in the senate is in favor of paying the bonus in full and a bill to that effect probably will pass. But sentiment in the house is entirely different and no such measure will be adopted. Indeed, the maximum amount to be carried will not exceed $500,000,000.

Against New Expenses
But as pointed out in these dispatches, even that sum is not relished by the treasury, which does not want to see any new expenditures, especially since the government faces a large deficit for the fiscal year ending in June and the next one coming. It would hardly be consistent for anyone in the treasury department to accept the compromise bills on veterans' loans in the face of the accumulating deficit. So the treasury's view is that no additional legislation should be passed at this time and that relief should come to needy veterans through local organizations.

This foreshadows a veto by the administration on any increased financial burden. But it is a foregone conclusion that some bill will be passed over the presidential veto. So while Mills was speaking correctly about the "unfavorable news" between now and the time veterans' legislation is finally acted on, the ultimate disposition of the soldiers' bonus question will not involve more than a half billion dollars and will not upset government borrowing powers if confined to that sum and if it is floated in several installments when the security markets are able to absorb short term notes at a low rate of interest.

RAISE GRADUATION STANDARD AT RIPPON

Bachelor of Philosophy Degree Is Eliminated by College

Rippon. —(P)—Higher graduation requirements and elimination of the bachelor of philosophy degree are features of a faculty report to be put into effect at Rippon college next fall.

According to Dean J. Clark Graham, the report is based on the theory that Rippon is a liberal arts college and its function as such is to lay a broad cultural foundation for "life and life specialization." The changes are based on fundamental considerations, listed by the faculty as:

"First, that every cultured person should possess competence in the use of his native language. Second, that he should be familiar with the great instrument of thought and achievement known as the scientific method. Third, that he should have acquaintance with another great language and literature than his own. Fourth, that he should have an introduction to the great historical record of human achievement, human expression in literature, man's thought about himself and the universe, or the exact training embodied in mathematical sciences. Beyond this he should be required to do specialized work in a field of his interests which should be provocative of creative effort."

Under the changes, Rippon college will grant only the degree of bachelor of arts. Dean Graham says the committee felt other similar degrees have always seemed "to smack something of catering to pre-professional rather than broadly cultural interests."

The new graduation requirements set minimums at:

Freshman English, one year of laboratory science, a year course in English literature, history, mathematics, and philosophy, and two years of foreign language of which two or more high school years will count toward one of them.

Getting at the Heart of the Valentine Problem

Patience Is Needed In Teaching Deaf Children

Six eager children, unable to hear a sound, sat in a circle learning the meaning of the phrase, "grow-up," from reading the lips of Miss Ida Gleason, principal of the school for the deaf in Lincoln school.

Seven-year-old Jack sat in the back of the room studying his arithmetic and words. Two years ago Jack was unable to utter a word, but today he expresses his needs and carries on a conversation in sentences quite like any 7-year-old youngster. The other six children are more advanced than Jack because they can read and write. He begins to combine letters into words, which are illustrated by picture cards. Meanings of things and actions follow. For instance, Jack learned the meaning of the word, "behind," by a constant repetition on the part of Miss Gleason of showing him a large piece of paper with "behind" written on it, which Jack learned to say from reading her lips. The paper was then always placed behind a box in the corner of the room, so that Jack associated the word with the action.

Of all the discoveries in words that Jack has learned, the greatest delight was in his knowledge that his father had a name. He had never called him anything, and after learning the word, "man," he proudly called his father "man" until he began to use "father" more familiarly.

After the deaf child learns his nouns, he is taught the verbs of action, which are always taught in the past tense. This is followed by chart work in sentence structure to explain where to put the words given under headings of who, what, verb, what kind, how many, what color, how, when and where.

Strangely, pronunciation of a word is taught by accent work with the piano and drums. The deaf child can feel the vibrations of the beating of a drum or a piano sound, thereby learning what emphasis to place on syllables in a word.

Mirrors Are Used
Mirrors are used to show the child how he can talk, tongue depressors are used to help him manipulate his tongue, and months of exercise follow to bring in use of the mouth, lips, jaws, teeth, breathing. After the child has learned the easy elements through diagram, practice and writing, he begins to combine letters into words, which are illustrated by picture cards. Meanings of things and actions follow. For instance, Jack learned the meaning of the word, "behind," by a constant repetition on the part of Miss Gleason of showing him a large piece of paper with "behind" written on it, which Jack learned to say from reading her lips. The paper was then always placed behind a box in the corner of the room, so that Jack associated the word with the action.

After this first step, Miss Gleason explained that the easiest way to speech is the babbling method, since the normal child begins manipulation of voice and tongue in the same manner. The work is tedious to make a child utter sounds and get them under control.

WHY TAKE PILLS?

There's no need to drug yourself with laxatives when constipation can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal. Mr. F. C. Aminsen, Kennyhole, Washington, writes:

I was so sick with constipation every night. Now it is so different. Kellogg's All-Bran works so naturally and is pleasant to take.

Just eat two tablespoonsful of Kellogg's All-Bran daily. Relief is guaranteed. It is the natural, safe way.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruit or honey added. Kellogg's All-Bran also furnishes iron for the blood. In the red and green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

VALENTINE MAY BE SENTIMENTAL OR BANTERING

Sentimentality, However, Is Sneaking Back into This Blase World

Sentimentality is sneaking back into this blase old world again, aided and abetted by multitudinous new Valentines arrayed to help little old Dan Cupid on February 14.

If you are one of those skeptics who have had a recurring suspicion that you really have a layer or two of sentimentality buried beneath that modern surface manner, St. Valentine's Day is the logical time to give it expression. And the new Valentines are so helpful. While there are some good old-fashioned ones that drip the delicious "sweet-nothings" that old-fashioned girls love to hear and old-fashioned beaux love to say, there are even more that have a bantering note, that get across the sentiment idea in a neat, off-hand manner.

Flowers, candy, fruit, books, and all the luxurious things girls like to get for Valentines are still in order. But you really should tuck away a Valentine among the wrappings, just because St. Valentine's Day, after all, is dedicated to sentiment and if you can't enter the spirit of it the least little bit, why try?

Valentines Are Four Kinds
By and large there are four new types of Valentines. Since fans are in vogue again, there is a tremendous number of lady, lovely, fan Valentines, some of them using real lace about the edge, with the floral design in parchment colors done in water color, on paper. In this same class of decorative, old-fashioned Valentines comes the quaint lace masterpiece, reproductions of those of the gay Nineties, with several layers of lace paper standing out in front of the picture itself. Most of these have old-fashioned verses, though some of the new fan ones do betray a nonchalance that is modern.

In this same class, rather expensive and old-fashioned, comes a new type that has a practical aspect. These are lovely prints, some authentic prints intended for framing when Valentine's day is over, others reproductions of Currier and Ives and old English shipping prints and colored Godey's Ladies Book prints. Also it is considered quite a neat thing to do to have a lady's silhouette done unbeknownst to her and have it sent her on Valentine's day as a gift! Other silhouettes are equally stylish, however.

Humorous Note Is Struck
Second in the new types of cards come the modern ones, which are definitely amusing. These are wise cracking, some in dialect, all typical of this age. But these new humorous cards get a smart crack about

Helble Helps Students On Vocational Problems

"What shall I become?"
"Where shall I go to college?"

"How can I get to college?"
"Do I need more education?"
These are the questions and problems in vocation and vocational preparation that seniors in Appleton high school are asking. These are the questions that Herbert H. Helble, principal, is endeavoring to answer in his annual conferences with seniors which began last week.

Each senior arranges for a conference with Mr. Helble during a free period in his schedule, when the principal and student discuss vocation and plans for higher education, and the student's credits since the ninth grade are checked completely toward graduation.

Mr. Helble started this project of vocational guidance six years ago, stressing the necessity of a guidance program for the student. Library guidance, bulletins, and lectures bring the subject before the student.

"Appleton High School Guidance for Seniors" is the name of a pamphlet compiled under the direction of Mr. Helble, which is in the library. The book carries a pen and ink sketch of the high school on the one's vocation, such as "I'm an architect, how about blue-printing some kisses?" Another one in this class, which has quite as many for women to send as for men, has this lovely verse:

"I'm not a blonde, by men preferred,
Nor have I 'it' of which you've heard,
I never flew nor wrote a book,
But man, OH, MAN, how I can cook!"

The third large group this year came to get themselves, especially the cat Valentines. Not only the type that one vixen would send another, but Valentines that follow the great vogue for cats as pets. Some are cat shaped, some have cats on them, with real fur for bodies and tails and others make all kinds of puns on "furr." There are many other pet Valentines, Scotties, parrots, fish, alligators, horses and so on.

Valentines Are Fashionable

Last, but not least, come the caricatures of the old-fashioned Valentines. They have such humorous, shy figures and such dainty poses. These are apt to be printed in gay colors with verses inside and out. They come nearest being the old-time comics that used to hurt folks so in another decade. But these show that there is soft-heartedness abroad today. For they soften the blow so, they are really just amusing and not cutting. In fact, these very Valentines, more than any of the others show that this blase old world really is becoming sentimental again and cares about folks' feelings. That is why it is stylish this year to send Valentines.

fly leaf; this is followed with a series of typewritten articles, which include the subjects of vocational guidance for girls, library work, social work, self-rating scheme, Wisconsin college requirements, some occupations to investigate, and financial aids which are available at colleges.

Many Books Available
Together with these articles, the school library has numerous books and pamphlets for the students to read. These include the books: "Business Employments," Allen; "Studies in Vocational Information," Bates; "Business and the Professions," Binder; "Case Studies in Educational and Vocational Guidance," Brower; "Training for the Professions and Allied Occupations," Bureau of Vocational Information in New York; "How Women May Earn a Living," Candee; "Careers for Coming Men," Candee; "The Worker and His Work," Center; "Analysis of Secretarial Duties and Traits," Charters; "Money Making for the Ladies," Church; "Vocational and Moral Guidance," Davis; "Vocational Guidance and Counseling," Edgerton; "Careers for Women," Filonen; "Getting a Foothold," Gardiner; "Occupations," Govin; "Which College?" Halle; "College—What's the Use?" Hawkes; "The Girl and the Job," Moore; "To Women of the Business World," Johnson; "Vocations for the Trained Woman," Martin; "Engineering as a Vocation," McCullough; "The Book of Opportunities," Platt; "Planning a Career," Smith; "Vocation for Girls," Weaver; "Analysis of Secretarial Duties and Traits," Charters and Whitley; "You are the Hope of the World," Hagedorn; "Wage Earning and Education," Lutz; "Personalism," Spillman; "Women in Journalism," Doughner.

In order to find material on specific colleges and universities, the library has a college directory, The College Blue Book by Hunt, and several catalogs and pamphlets from particular colleges. This material discusses location of a particular school, its tuition, entrance fee, entrance requirements, type of school, and its enrollment and population of the city in which it is.

Among the pamphlet material available there are guidance bulletins from the Chicago Board of Education, Lawrence college, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, U. S. Department of Labor, the University of Michigan, the University of Wisconsin, the University of Cincinnati, St. Louis Public Schools. Other pamphlets include Sanders' "Will It Pay Me to Go to College?" "What Kind of College is Best?" M. M. Stearns; "Why Graduate?" A. E. Vinship; the Vocational Guidance magazine; and material from the Teachers' Guide.

KAUKAUNA FIVE MEETS NEENAH THIS EVENING

Coach Little's Team Hopes to Square Account With Jorgenson Quint

Kaukauna—Still smarting from the sting of defeat at the hands of Shawano high school, Kaukauna high school cagers will play the highly touted Neenah quintet in a North-eastern Wisconsin Interscholastic league game at Neenah Friday evening. Neenah also fell in the league standing last week when Oconto defeated the Jorgenson team. Last year Neenah won the state championship. Kaukauna met Coach Jorgenson's five earlier this season and was easily defeated. The Neenah five only had two more field goals than the Kaukauna five. A large lead when they made most of their free throws. Their defeat at the hands of Oconto gives Coach Paul Little a hope that his team might also do the trick. The local squad has been practicing hard this week in anticipation of the fracas. Special emphasis was made on shooting. In the last encounter with Neenah, the Electric City team got off to a bad start, but was playing on even terms with Neenah as the game ended.

Koch will start the game at center with Schwinderman and Paschen at forwards and VanLieshout and Farwell at guards. Others that will see action are Ludtke, Sager, Dix, Van-Dyke and Rabideau.

Social Items

Kaukauna—The F. and A. Masonic lodge will commemorate George Washington's birthday anniversary at a meeting at 845 Saturday evening, Feb. 21. Dr. C. Wesley Boag, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Green Bay, will be the principal speaker.

Students of the Outagamie Rural Normal school held a party Thursday evening in the school gymnasium. During the evening the entertainment was given by Dorothy Hartman and Miss Lorraine DeBrue, who were in charge of the refreshments.

Kaukauna Elks met Thursday evening in Elks hall on Second-st. The meeting was preceded by a 6:30 dinner. Inspection by the district deputy and initiation took place.

A regular meeting of the local lodge of Odd Fellows was held Thursday evening in Odd Fellow hall on Second-st.

A Lincoln supper was served Thursday by the ladies of Brokaw Memorial Episcopal church in Epworth home.

VOCATIONAL CAGERS SET FOR MANITOWOC

Kaukauna—Manitowoc Vocational cagers will invade Kaukauna Saturday evening to meet the Kaukauna Vocational school quintet in the high school auditorium. The game will begin at 8:15.

Kaukauna was defeated by Sheboygan last week after putting up a strong battle which found the local team in the lead until the final period of play. Coach B. D. Rice is expecting a win from his cagers from Manitowoc and the battle promises to be a close one.

The vocational school cagers made some good showings in their games here despite the fact that they usually came out at the short end of the count. In the line-up there will be Smith at center, Reuter and Welhouse at forwards, Hammen, Busse, Veenbernt and VanDroese at guards.

A preliminary game will be played between the Manitowoc Twenty Five club and Company D of Appleton. Mulford have two wins over the Appleton five. The game will begin at 7:15 in the evening.

MUSICAL COMEDY IS PRESENTED AT SCHOOL

Kaukauna—The initial performance of the three-act musical comedy, "Aunt Lucia," was presented Thursday evening before a capacity house in the high school auditorium. Some members of the audience were forced to stand, as all the seats were taken. The play will be presented the second time Friday evening, and another capacity house is expected. The play is directed by Miss Lucille Drogger. Following the play there will be a dance in the auditorium.

KAUKAUNA DEBATERS BEAT CLINTONVILLE

Kaukauna—Kaukauna high school won the last half of the second round of debates in the state elimination contest from Clintonville high school here Thursday afternoon, 1 to 0. She has been in the library school for a month's field work. Mrs. Winifred L. Davis, field visitor for the library school, was at the local library Friday.

The Post-Crescent's representative at Kaukauna is Lloyd Deras. His telephone number is 194-W. Business with The Post-Crescent may be transacted through Mr. Deras.

DOG, CAUGHT FOR HOURS IN FENCE, FATALLY INJURED

Kaukauna—Failing to extricate itself after hours of struggle, a large dog was found caught in a barbed wire fence along the Chicago and Northwestern railroad tracks here by Charles Kalista, section foreman. The dog had worn himself out by his struggles and could only whimper feebly when Mr. Kalista came along. The dog's back was caught on the wire fence about four feet from the ground leaving his head dangling down in a pile of loose wire. The dog's flesh was torn and it had to be killed.

NEW BOOKS PLACED ON LIBRARY SHELVES

Wide Variety of Subjects Covered in Latest Additions

Kaukauna—Patrons of the Kaukauna public library will find interesting new reading material on the shelves of the library, according to Miss Bernice Happer, librarian. Among the more recent books is a biography of "Isabella of Spain, the Last Crusader," by William Thomas Walsh. This is the dramatic story of a great woman's life, spent in conflict for her religion and her people. It is based upon authentic sources and is a gold mine of information for the average reader. A second biography is "Disraeli," by Andre Maurois, a picture of the Victorian age. Disraeli lives in this book as magician, opportunist and loyal British statesman. It is an excellent book, skillfully done.

A book, written for the general public interested in the talking picture, is that of Arthur Edwin Krows "The Talkies." The author has a wide knowledge of his subject as producer and theatre manager and presents much interesting material on this great American industry. For stamp collectors, the "Scott Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue, 1931," is on hand. This gives data of issue, color, shape and value of all stamps ever issued.

The new fiction lists includes the following: "Call Her Fannie," by Edington; "Up the Ladder of Gold," by Oppenheim; "The Mysterious Affair at Styles," by Christie; "Her Father's House," by Vaughn; "Steamboat Gold," by Ogden; "The Love of Julie Borel," by Norris; "Smiling Charlie," by Brand; "Strictly Private," by Benson; "The Dreams for Old," by Wilson; "The Seven Dials Mystery," by Christie; and "The Lion's Den," by Fairbanks.

CINDERS PLACED ON KAUKAUNA STREETS

Kaukauna—Cinders were put on all intersections and arterial corners in the business section of the city Thursday evening following the light snow. The city snow plow was put into action and the down town district was cleaned.

8 WIDOWS TO GET BIGGER PENSIONS

BY RUBY A. BLACK
(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

The bill as amended by the senate now contains 371 bills and carries an annual appropriation of $68,582.

FARMERS PLANNING TO RAISE AS MANY CHICKENS AS USUAL

Slump in Egg Prices Not Expected to Affect Business in County

BY W. F. WINSEY

Despite the present low price of eggs, farmers and other poultry people are planning to raise the usual number of chicks next summer. The slump in farm prices the past year was general and it now covers all farm commodities that farmers stand as good a chance by sticking to their customary crops as by changing to some other crop. The cabbage growers and the potato growers for instance were very much disappointed with their financial returns last fall but it would not improve matters if the cabbage growers and the potato growers changed places next spring. No class is harder hit by low prices than dairymen, but the cow nevertheless is a reliable source of farm income and it would be absurd for her owner to trade her for hogs with the idea of making more money through the trade.

It is said that 10 per cent of the farm income on the average is derived from farm flocks. If that is true the plan of reducing the size of farm flocks on account of low prices at the present time would be unwise. With the return of good times, the prices of all farm products will increase, let us hope, plan accordingly, and stick to our main sources of farm revenue in the past.

In the purchase of chicks, the better plan is to patronize the home hatcheries. Chicks produced in local hatcheries are from laying strains of state accredited stock. The owners of accredited, local hatcheries guaranteed the state department of agriculture to give their customers fair, honest treatment.

"Many of the out-of-state hatcheries are making extravagant claims through their salesmen and many of these claims are in no way supported by facts," says A. A. Brown, poultry specialist of the state department of agriculture. "Too many Wisconsin chick buyers get slyed each year because elaborate catalogs and unscrupulous salesmen make them believe they can get chicks from 300-egg hens at small cost. In the five states of Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin there are probably not more than a dozen or fifteen official 300-egg layers."

Research work indicates that chicks do best when fed as soon after hatching as possible. Feeding journeys by mail are not as good for chicks as a quick transfer from hatchery to brooder. This quick transfer is possible when the chicks are purchased at a local hatchery. "Certified chicks are those from male birds which have a pedigree showing them to be the progeny of hens that lay 200 eggs or more a year."

"R. O. P. chicks are from males and females with official records. All R. O. P. females must have laid 200 eggs or more by official record and all males must be from hens that lay 225 eggs or more per year. At the present time there are about 1,000 A. O. P. hens in Wisconsin." Eggs at the present price of 15 cents per dozen are paying the producer a profit of 2 cents per dozen. Can anybody say that milk at $1.30 per hundred pounds pays the farmer a profit, or hogs at $7.50 per hundred, or storage cabbage at $4.00 per ton?

Poultry is just as promising as any other farm crop and shifting from one crop to another does not usually do much good, especially in times of general depression.

The term "red tape" originated from the practice of tying up official documents in "red tape" to keep them in order.

"Simply Wonderful"—Mother Praises

"Little Minnie came home from school sneezing and coughing. I had never seen her with such a cold, and I was scared! I put her to bed and gave her some Smith Brothers' Syrup. Now comes an utterly new-type waffle-iron that makes waffles automatically. That banishes all the guesswork; all the burn, smoke and bother from waffle making.

It comes as another unique electrical invention from the people who invented automatic toast-making — from the inventors of the famous Toastmaster.

It is called the Waffle-Master, is completely automatic and tells you when to pour the batter in and when to take the waffle out.

ALL YOU DO IS SET A LEVER

All you do is set a lever. When the iron is at just the right heat for the batter, a tiny red signal light tells you that it is.

FARMERS ORGANIZE MILK COOPERATIVE IN THIS TERRITORY

Purposes of Marketing Group Explained at Series of Meetings This Week

BY W. F. WINSEY

Organized into a nicely articulated unit for the collective marketing of dairy products as they propose, the patrons of the milk plants at Nichols, New London, Appleton, Neenah, Kaukauna, Black Creek and other points in Outagamie county will soon have the largest and most promising milk marketing concerns in the state of Wisconsin.

The marketing organization when completed will include in its membership 2,850 farmers distributed as follows: Appleton milk producing area, 1,200; New London, 400; Nichols, 400; Clintonville, 400; and Black Creek, 100.

The organization work has been completed at New London, Clintonville, Nichols, Black Creek, nearly, and is in progress this week in the Appleton territory inclusive of Neenah, Menasha, Kaukauna, Greenville, Freedom, Stephenville, and Center Valley. An average of 125 farmers has attended the organization meetings already held this week in the series of 13 scheduled in the territory under consideration. The series will wind up with a meeting in the court house, Appleton, Saturday. After the series is completed membership committees appointed at each meeting will begin drives.

The immediate purpose of organizing a branch of the Pure Milk Producers' in the Appleton territory is to check weights and tests in the milk plants, and the ultimate purpose in the minds of farmers is to get a fair part of the dollar that the consumer pays for milk and cream.

CHURCHES PREPARE TO FILM LIQUOR CONDITIONS IN U. S.

Los Angeles—(AP)—H. L. Herbert, general manager of the newly formed American Motion Pictures corporation, said today production would begin March 1 on the first of a series of motion pictures in which it is planned to depict the liquor problem in its relation to the American people.

"The United Church Brotherhood of Washington, D. C., composed of 200 church organizations and headed by prominent Americans, is backing the productions to the extent of $10,000,000," Herbert said. "The films are for the purpose of showing, in an unbiased manner, the true state of affairs as regards the prohibition picture today in America, with a view to getting it in the minds of the people."

"The pictures are not for propaganda purposes. The services of well known motion picture players, including at least one ranking film star are being sought for the first picture."

HOLDS UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE IS CERTAIN

Kenosha—(AP)—Unemployment insurance is inevitable in the United States to give labor a mode of security, Prof. Don D. Lescotier, Madison, secretary of the Wisconsin Citizens' Committee on Unemployment, told delegates of the Master Builders' association yesterday.

He urged contractors to adopt the eight-hour day program for the present season and suggested, if necessary, that employers run two shifts of five hours each to alleviate unemployment.

The licensing committee of the association suggested a bill seeking to require a $10 license fee for contractors. The state railroad commission would be empowered to examine contractors and issue licenses. The proposal is aimed at fly-by-night concerns.

MILLERS WILLING TO TAKE CHANCE ON WHEAT "LOAN"

Either Lowering or Raising of Price Would Involve Plan

BY FRANK I. WELLER
(Associated Press Farm Editor)

Washington—(AP)—Two possibilities seem involved in the plan of southwestern millers to borrow stabilization corporation wheat for the current export flour market and pay it back with new crop grain.

One is that the domestic price of the new crop will go lower than the July quotation—the other that the world price of new crop wheat will rise.

Domestic July heat is about 3 cents above the world price. Ocean freight and export handling charges amount to about 15 cents a bushel, making the grain worth at least 18 cents more in this country than at Liverpool.

Still the millers propose to compete in the world market with wheat which, when repaid, would cost them more than foreign millers pay now.

What Might Happen

The wheat does not have to be returned until September 15. The farm board has said it will not stabilize new crop wheat unless conditions make it imperative.

Thus subject to vicissitudes of the open market, new wheat might work lower than the July quotations before the millers have to buy for repayment to the corporation. In that instance it is possible that the wheat they borrow now actually may be worth no more than the wheat used by foreign competitors.

On the other hand, if world prices rise the domestic value of new wheat may not have to decline below July quotations for the millers to make a profit.

Take Chance On Price

With wheat selling around 56 cents in Liverpool and at about 50 cents in this country it has been impossible for millers of the southwest to stay in the export flour trade.

By the new arrangement they would get wheat now for what it will be worth next summer. On that basis they believe they can get back in the market.

Regardless of whether the new crop price goes up or down before September 15, the wheat will still be worth 80 cents to the stabilization corporation when it is returned.

Valentine Dance, Sat. Nite, 5 Corners. Prizes given.

HURLEY REPUTATION STUMBLING BLOCK FOR NICOLA RANIERI

Milwaukee—(AP)—The reputation of Hurley, "bad boy" Wisconsin town, today stood as a stumbling block to the freedom of Nicola Ranieri, Hurley alien.

Taken from Hurley for deportation after charges of being implicated in the operation of a disorderly house, Ranieri was removed from a train at Chicago on a habeas corpus petition.

At the hearing here yesterday, U. S. District Attorney Levi H. Bancroft gave Hurley's Silver-st district a severe tongue lashing.

"Women of Hurley, the sort who frequented this man's place," he said, "went from saloon to saloon on Silver-st there, drank liquor in back rooms and then took their 'friends' to rooms in the saloons. Later, in Ranieri's case, they returned to give him money they received from their 'friends.' Everybody knows the reputation of the street and his place was one of the many dives. I can't see how any sane person can fail to believe his place was a disorderly house and that he ran it."

Reputations, Ranieri's attorney said, do not constitute specific evidence. Bancroft retorted that the court ought to take "judicial notice of Hurley's reputation."

Judge F. A. Geizer said it was not up to him to review the evidence, but Ranieri was remanded to immigration officials after he dissolved the writ. His attorney planned an appeal to the Chicago Federal Court of Appeals.

FOUR IN ORATORY FINALS
Monmouth, Ill.—(AP)—Four co-eds who survived the preliminaries of the 55th annual Illinois Intercollegate Oratorical contest at the Monmouth college will go into the finals tonight. Ruth Lembke of Racine, Wis., representing North Central college, is one of the four.

New Orleans—Huey Long has pink pajamas now. He wore them to a luncheon on the battleship Wyoming. They're cotton and his idea was to boost home products.

"Sailing Boats Are Satisfactory --- We Don't Care To Try Steam Boats"

Robert Fulton heard words like that. Even the theologians were against combining the fire and water which God had separated.

Times have changed — Now-A-Days people are NOT satisfied with things as they are, but demand something better. People realize there is as much difference in meat as there is between a Lincoln and a Ford. Cheaply priced meat, of course means cheap quality. Higher quality meat means slightly higher initial cost, but less waste, less bone, and less fat, and so it is more economical in the long run because Voecks Meat is more nutritious and more healthful. Voecks Bros. Meats, Poultry, and Sausages are for those particular people who are glad there is a difference in meat.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

Chapter 15
WAS IT VINCENT?

SUPERINTENDENT Richmond's smothered explanation indicated that Roscoe's information was startlingly important.

"You mean the man who was out in front with the car?" he said with mounting interest. "Where is he?"

"He's just come," the constable said. "He's talking to the two sisters now."

The men he addressed moved nearer the hall door and looked in the direction he indicated. "Why that's Vincent Blake!" exclaimed Miss Querding's lawyer, Morgan.

Richmond was puzzled as he recalled that the girls had said, he had not been near the place for months and that Ben Acres had sworn there had been no callers. Were they lying, or had this visit been without their knowledge? In his perplexity the superintendent did not know whether to recall the jurors and examine Blake or let them complete their deliberations and declare their verdict, expected soon.

If Blake had nothing to tell Richmond foresaw that he would look foolish to interrupt the proceedings. Likely the jurors would lay the crime to persons unknown, but suppose they declared the doctor or the chauffeur guilty—and this new witness had not been heard?

Roscoe told him he was certain Blake was the man he had seen cranking his car near the tradesman's gate. If that were so, Blake might have entered without Ben Acres seeing him. Using the side entrance, he could have worked through the shrubbery to the Dutch garden, thus avoiding the lodge, the garage and kitchen quarters where the chauffeur and maids were on duty. Had Marjorie seen him? Did that account for her nervousness?

Before he could decide, the jurors were filing back into their box. He whispered to Roscoe to keep Blake near for questioning. The foreman was reading the verdict.

"We are unanimous agreed that Miss Annabelle Querding was wilfully murdered. The evidence is at present inadequate to prove the guilt of the person or persons concerned."

The verdict did not quite follow the stereotyped form. Did the jury wish to hint that the persons were not unknown?

Jimmie Haswell took special note of Vincent Blake as Captain Stirling greeted him, his sisters and Duckworth, while Audrey, Vance and Mr. Morgan joined the little group. His likeness to his sister was not notable, since he was dark and they were fair and several years younger. But the broken bridge to his large nose suggested to Jimmie that Roscoe had correctly identified him.

Constable Roscoe pushed through the crowd and told Blake that the superintendent wished to speak with him. He seemed surprised and Stirling explained, "Not inquisitive. We all have to go through it."

Jimmie and Morgan followed the nephew into a small side room where Richmond was waiting with an abrupt question. "Where were you on the night of Thursday last, when your aunt died?"

Taken aback, Blake looked uncomfortable, but answered, "In Bradford."

If Richmond was surprised by the nephew's immediate admission of presence in the neighborhood, he did not comment. "Where do you live?" he asked.

"In Wimbledon, just outside London."

"Where were you in Bradford that night?" asked the constable. Blake looked at him. "I wanted to see my aunt," he said slowly.

"Did you see her?"

"No, she did not know that I had come."

Richmond regarded him sternly. "Do you mean to suggest that you came from London to Bradford specially to see your aunt and went away without seeing her?"

Vincent gave a weak sort of laugh. "It may sound odd, foolish perhaps, but it is true."

Morgan interposed that Vincent was not on good terms with his aunt and might explain why he had changed his mind. His tone was encouraging and Vincent appreciated it.

"We were not on bad terms," he said. "Recently a man I know gave me an option on some choice property between Wimbledon and Kingston. The price was reasonable and I decided to ask my aunt to finance me, take most of the profit, but give me a good start on my own account."

"I didn't see her. When I drove over from Bradford I found I'd left the plans behind. Then I figured that if I told her I'd come without the papers she'd call me a fool and refuse to help me."

Morgan agreed, but Richmond continued. "Did you see your sisters?"

"No. If I'd seen anyone, my aunt would have inquired why I'd come and I would have to explain my mistake. When I got back to Bradford, I concluded I'd started wrong. Knowing my aunt I reflected it would be better to write first and show her the proposition was sound and then see her."

"So you wrote from Bradford?"

"No, I never wrote at all."

"I see," said Richmond, sarcastically. "And this all happened on the night your aunt was killed?"

"You've got to understand that I was frightened at Aunt Annabelle," said Blake, fidgeting restlessly. "I thought that, if I wrote from Bradford, it might look as though coming all that way—I took it for granted she would do what I wanted. And that might annoy her. So I decided to wait till I got back to town. I was just about to write when I saw the death notice in the Friday night's papers. This is only Monday."

He had not told his sisters of his visit, and Richmond said that perhaps he intended to keep it a secret. To this Vincent said, "I told you when you asked me."

"You were at Marrow Craig," Richmond said, "at the very moment your aunt was killed. Had the question been put to you, under oath, could you have sworn that you had done nothing directly or indirectly to cause your aunt's death?"

"Indeed I could," said Vincent Blake earnestly.

Then Jimmie inquired if Blake corresponded with his sisters and was told that letters were rare. When he asked Vincent if he had brought the plans along this time, the nephew answered brightly, "Yes, I have."

"Why?" demanded Richmond. "Because I thought the girls might get something from Aunt Annabelle and they might help me. I did not expect anything myself."

There were a few more questions but no variations from his original story and he and Morgan withdrew. Richmond addressed Jimmie. "Well, he is as simple as a seagull."

"Probably not. He's scared, realizes his awkward position, and tries to strike a note of manly frankness which he can't quite manage."

Richmond admitted his surprise that Vincent had not tried to dodge being near Marrow Craig, but Jimmie laughed. "If Roscoe spotted him, no doubt he spotted Roscoe. When you sent Roscoe for him he is quite enough to know the right answer."

"Then you think he is concerned in it—with Marjorie?" Richmond was putting his own thoughts into words. "The will would have made a lot of difference to him. As things stand he is likely to benefit considerably."

The missing will—can it be found? Suspensions against Vincent increase in tomorrow's installment.

CASH, HEREFTER

London—When a shoe repairman was summoned at Cheshamford for non-payment of taxes, he left the following sign on his door to let his customers know that he'd not accept any more cash accounts: "I will not take my services for cash. I'm a 'busted' man. It should be explained that the word 'busted' in English means 'dead'."

Important Radio Development Forecast By Marconi In Broadcast Confab

BY C. E. BUTTERFIELD
(Copyright By The Associated Press)

New York (P)—An important radio development is in the offing, its nature so far undisclosed, Guglielmo Marconi has indicated in the first radio interview ever conducted between New York and Vatican City.

Responding to questions put to him over a 3,500-mile invisible short wave radio circuit, Senator Marconi vaguely hinted that another forward step was to be taken in wireless, to which he has contributed so much since its earliest days.

The question that started this information was: "What, in your opinion, is to be the next important development in radio?"

To which he replied: "Well, I wish I could answer that important question. Perhaps if I could, I am not sure that I would broadcast it."

He added that on a proposed visit to America next fall "I may be able to say something more."

A wide range of radio subjects was touched upon by the senator, including the statement that power transmission by radio was possible "but in an extremely inefficient manner."

Television development, he believes, depends largely upon further perfection of telephonic and rapid picture transmission. Then he said, "we may be very close to practical television."

Make Careful Arrangements
The interview, with the questioner seated before a microphone in a broadcast laboratory, was made possible through the cooperation of the National Broadcasting company, and the new Vatican City Station, HVJ, which Marconi donated to the Vatican.

Technical arrangements, which included the use of the general electric transmitter W2XAF, Schenectady, on 31.48 meters, were made by Charles W. Horn, general engineer of NBC. This station carried the voice of the interviewer, who was the writer, to Vatican city.

Mr. Marconi attended the details at HVJ, which was then using 50.3 meters and which was received via the RCA experimental short wave station at Riverhead, L. I.

Two wire lines connected the laboratory in the NBC headquarters to the actual receiving and transmitting stations. There was a microphone in one corner of the laboratory, with a loud speaker on the other side of the room reproducing the voice of Marconi.

It was a real thrill to converse over such a distance so easily—product of the great strides engineers have made.

Just like talking on an ordinary telephone, questions and answers passed back and forth as if the two were in the same room.

The interview was made in conjunction with the preliminary tests that preceded the inauguration of HVJ by Pope PIUS XI.

Mr. Marconi accredited the good results obtained by HVJ in part to the type of aerial used, to the steadiness of the carrier through the use of a special control circuit and to the care taken to perfect the modulation equipment.

Sees Continued Improvement
He expressed the belief that such a degree of perfection in broadcast reception had been reached in the last five years, that in all probability a slow evolution and steady progress would come within the next five years. He also declared that within ten years radio would be much better, simpler and cheaper.

He said overseas transmission would improve in radio with the amount of money spent on plants and stations, and that dead spots could be avoided by the use of more suitable wavelengths.

While wireless has developed in keeping with his early hopes as far as world-wide communication was concerned, he said that present progress had surpassed all of the first expectations.

After introductions via radio by Mr. Horn, the interview proceeded.

Mr. Butterfield: Hello, senator. Senator Marconi is that Mr. Butterfield?

This is Mr. Butterfield speaking.

I am very glad to meet you over the wireless.

I am certainly very glad to meet you also, senator. I have a number of questions. To start, will you please give a brief description of HVJ?

A.—It is a Marconi short wave broadcast transmitter employing power modulation and about ten kilowatts in the aerial.

Q.—What improvements does it incorporate to make the signals so readable?

Credits New Aerial
Q.—I believe that the results obtained are chiefly due to the use of a new aerial, which assures a uniform current distribution over its entire vertical length, and also from the steadiness of our carrier which is controlled by our recently developed tube oscillator circuit—and possibly also to the care we have taken to perfect our modulation equipment.

We were also fortunate to have been given a free hand by the Vatican authorities; and I think also due to the fact that we were not tied down by rules and specifications. It is much better when one has a free hand than when one is tied down to data by some red tape imposed by government officials and by gentlemen who understand less about it than they should.

Q.—How soon do you think television will be practical?

A.—Television, as you know, is the highest grade in the art of communication and it is rapidly benefiting from the improvements made in the lower grades of the art—telephonic and rapid picture transmission. I think that when the latter are further perfected we may be close to practical television.

Q.—What are the possibilities of the transmission of power by radio?

A.—Power certainly can be transmitted by radio, but in a very inefficient manner, but its practical possibilities are still very remote and perhaps will be always so. I cannot yet very well visualize our homes being lighted and heated by power received through the ether, except as a pleasant dream. Of course, there may be some invention which may change all this.

Process of Evolution
Q.—In other words, it takes more power to transmit power by radio than can be obtained from the transmission?

A.—Yes.

Q.—Do you think broadcast reception will improve at the same ratio in the next five years as it did in the last five?

A.—Radio broadcast reception has been improved in such a rapid rate that we have already obtained such a degree of perfection in reproduction that I am afraid that, aside from always possible new inventions, further progress towards perfect reproduction is likely to be in the form of slow evolution and steady improvement. We have got pretty close to perfection.

Q.—Will overseas transmission ever equal the quality of local transmission?

A.—I think that as far as quality is concerned it will, but I think its reliability will depend on the money you are prepared to spend on the stations and the plants. If you are prepared to spend a lot of money, of course I think one can get the same quality and the same service overseas as on shore.

Q.—How do you think radio in ten years will compare with that of today?

A.—It will certainly be much better and probably much simpler and cheaper.

Q.—What efforts are being made to overcome dead spots and static?

Avoid Dead Spots
A.—Dead spots are being avoided by the use of more suitable wavelengths. Our greatest victory over static has coincided with the summary of the possibility by using short waves for long distance communication and the use of directional transmission and reception; that is, by the use of the beam projector system.

Q.—Will the channels under 200 meters ultimately be more practical than higher waves for all-around purposes?

A.—I think as far as long distance communication is concerned that a wave length under 200 meters possesses more possibilities.

Q.—What progress has been made toward increasing the transmission of the full musical range?

A.—There is no technical difficulty of transmitting the full musical range, but the ever increasing number of broadcast stations, with the increasing difficulty of avoiding interference, does not allow us hope for ever much improvement in that direction.

Q.—What, in your opinion, is to be the next important development in radio?

A.—Well, I wish I could answer that important question. Perhaps if I could, I am not sure that I would broadcast it. I can't give you much more on that.

Q.—When will you make your next visit to America?

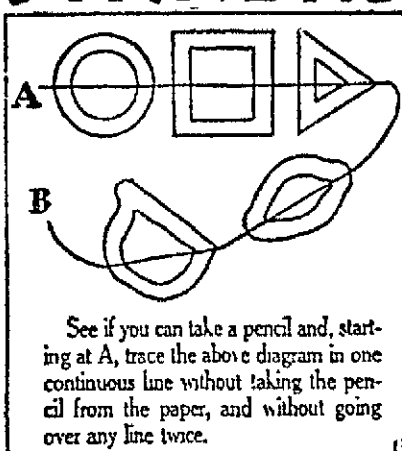

A.—I hope very much to be able to come there next fall, and if I do have the pleasure of coming perhaps I may be able to say something more in regard to your previous question.

Q.—That will be fine. Now to conclude, has radio developed as you had hoped in the early days?

A.—Certainly, and apart from the hopes of world-wide communication which I always thought possible from the time of my earliest work in wireless, present developments do surpass all my early expectations.

PER CAPITA GOVERNMENT COST LOWER

Computation Shows City Expenses Less in 1930 Than for Six Years

The per capita cost of government in Appleton cost less in 1930 than any year in the last six years, figures computed from audit reports reveal.

The cost of running the city last year was $22,064 for each individual over $5 less than the $27,422 of 1926, the second lowest year since 1926. The highest per capita tax was in 1928, when it was $44.525. In 1929 it was $35.279, in 1927, $35.235 and in 1930, $30.750. In the high year, 1928, the per capita tax was $35.544, or $200,232 in improvements, including $98,451 for paving and $101,831 for sewers, are not included in the total cost of government that year.

The figures used include the total expenditures each year with the exception of extensive improvements, such as the paving and sewer projects in 1928. The increase in population during the past six years was computed on the basis of the 1930 census.

In 1930 the total cost of government was $657,500, and the population 25,267. In 1929 expenditures amounted to $716,961, and the population was figured at 25,262. The population figures for 1928, 1927 and 1926 were set at 25,300 each year. The 1928 cost of government was $992,825 including the two major improvements totalling $200,232, and $792,593 without the paving and sewer projects. The 1927 cost of government was $785,747, and the 1926 expenditures $611,526. In 1925 the population was set at 19,561, and the total cost of operating the city was $590,102.

RAIL SHIPMENTS ON INCREASE, AGENT SAYS

During the past two or three weeks, freight shipments have been increasing tremendously, according to W. B. Basing, local agent for the Chicago and Northwestern railroad company. Local merchants are receiving larger shipments, and Appleton industrial and manufacturing plants are making larger shipments, Mr. Basing stated. The increase in shipments has brought about the re-employment of a number of railroad men, it is reported.

CALL ANNUAL MEETING OF CREAMERY PATRONS

Galesville —(P)—Stockholders and patrons of the Arctic Springs cooperative creamery of Galesville will meet here Saturday for the 42nd annual business session. The plant was organized in 1889 and is now one of the finest butter factories in the district.

R. K. Froker, economist from the state college of agriculture, Madison, will address the meeting, on "Unfair Practices Among the Cooperative Creameries."

You Can't Keep Clean FREE

When you walk through the plant where Cobb's bread and doughnuts are made you are impressed by the spotless, shining cleanliness of everything. The walls, the floors, the ceilings—all are immaculate. And everywhere you see people with brushes and mops, cleaning and scrubbing and scouring.

They're not donating their services. They're being paid, and well paid. And they represent just another cost item that continues to go into every loaf of bread or package of doughnuts whether wheat is up or down.

There's a lot to this baking business. And to some it's a question whether it would be better to cut out some of these expenses and use cheaper ingredients and put out a lower priced article of poorer flavor and with less nutritive value. But we've decided that as far as we're concerned, we'll continue to give real value and ask what it's worth.
